INTRODUCTION.

It will naturally be expected that the following treatise should be introduced to the reader by some account of the manuscript from which it has been transcribed, and some statement of the grounds upon which it has been attributed to the pen of Wickliffe.

The manuscript is preserved in the library of Trinity College, Dublin, among the valuable remains of ancient literature collected by the celebrated Archbishop Ussher, and presented by King Charles II. to the University.*

It is on vellum, containing 219 leaves, each $6_{\frac{2}{5}}$ inches by $4 \frac{2}{5}$; a full page having 31 or 32 lines, very neatly and accurately written, in the usual secretary hand of the fourteenth or beginning of the fifteenth century. The last leaf is much wormed, and the volume ends imperfectly.

Its contents are as follow :-

* It is marked in the Library, Class C. Tab. 5, No. 6. CAMD. SOC. 14.
I. A tract entitled Credo (being an exposition of the Creed) ; beginning, "It is sooth that bileue is grounde of alle vertues." Fol. 1, a. This piece is attributed to Wickliffe by Bishop Bale. See Lewis's List, No. 152.*
II. A short Commentary on the Pater noster ; beginning, " We schall bileue that this pater noster that Crist hymsilf techith to alle cristen men, passith alle othere praiers." Fol. 2, a.
III. A Commentary on the Ave Maria; beginning, "Men greten commonly our lady goddis moder, and we supposen that this gretyng saueth many men." Fol. 3, b. See Lewis's List. No. 154.
IV. Of the "vij eresies." This treatise is divided into seven chapters, each treating of a distinct heresy. At the end we read, "Expliciunt vij hereses contra pater noster." It begins thus: "For false men multiplien bokis of the chirche, now rendyng bileue, and now cloutynge eresies." Fol. 4, b.

The Lord's Prayer in the former tract was divided into seven petitions, or " axyngs," as is usual with divines, and each of the seven heresies described in the present tract has reference to one of the seren "axyngs " of the Pater noster. The tract appears to have been especially directed against the Friars: as may appear from the " heresies" it describes, which are as follows :-

1. "That special preier applied bi her prelats, is better than general ; as oon famulorum * seid of a frere, is better than a pater noster."
2. "That thes prelats ben hedis of goddis remme . . . . and so alle thes freris ben men of hooli chirche, that God wol here gladlier than ony othere comoun men."
3. "That thei can bowe the wille of our Lord God to brynge a soule to heuen, bi maner of her preiyng."
4. "That the sacrid oost is no maner breed, but either now 3 t, or accident withouten ony subiect."
5. "That prestis haue power to assoile men of synne."
6. "That men of prinate religioun be more thick saued." $\dagger$
7. "That if we worchen bi conseillis of thes newe ordris, that leuen the ordenaunce of Crist, we shal nedely be saued."

The tract ends fol. 6, b. The next two leaves are blank.
V. A treatise on the ten Commandments ; beginning, " Alle maner of men schulden holde goddis biddyngis." Fol. 9, a.

This is the tract entitled by Bale "Compendium X. Præceptorum," which he describes as beginning Cujuscunque conditionis fuerint homines.* It is divided into two parts, corresponding to the two Tables of the law, the first consisting of twelve, the second of twenty-eight chapters.

VI. A treatise on "Feith, Hope, and Charite ;" beginning, "For it is seid in holdyng of our haliday, that we shulden occupie the tyme in prechyng, and deuout hering of the lawe of Gocl." Fol. 27, a. This tract is divided into six chapters ; and is probably the same as that mentioned by Lewis, No. 274. There is a copy of it in a volume preserved in the library of New College, Oxford. $\gamma$
VII. A tract entitled at the end "Opera misericordie corporalis;" beginning, "If a man wer sur that he shulde to morowe come bifor a iuge, and other lese or wynne alle the goodis that he hat, and eke his lijf therto." Fol. 30, b. It is divided into six chapters.

This is also in the volume belonging to New College, Oxford, and is entitled, "The seuen werkys of mercy bodily."-It is mentioned by Bale and Lewis. ${ }_{}^{}$

IX. "Septem peccata capitalia;" a treatise on the seven deadly sins, beginning, "Sith bileue techith vs that every yuel is other synne, or cometh of synne, synne. shulde be fled as almaner of yuel." Fol. 38, a.

The seven sins are thus enumerated: "Pride, Enuye, Wraththe or Ire, Sleuthe, Couetise, Gloterie, Lecherie."

This tract is divided into thirty-two chapters and ends on Fol. 63, a. There are copies of it, according to Lewis, in the Bodleian Library, and in the King's Library. $\downarrow$
X. "De Ecclesia et membris ejus ;" beginning, " Cristis chirche is his spouse, that hath thre partis, the first part is in bliss, with Crist hed of the chirche, and conteyneth aungelis and blessid men that now ben in heuene." Fol. 63, b.

This tract is ascribed to Wicliffe under the titles De ecclesice dominio, and De ecclesia Catholica. ${ }^{*}$ It is divided into ten chapters, and ends fol. 75 , b. where we read "Explicit tractatus de ecclesia et membris ejus."

* Bale, ibid. Lewis, No. 156, p. 206, and No. 258, p. 211.
+ Lewis, No. 259, p. 211.

XI. "De apostasia et dotatione ecclesiæ;" beginning, "Sith ilche cristen man is holden to sewe [i.e. to follow] Crist, and whoever faylith in this is apostata." Fol. 76, a.

This tract is divided into four chapters, and ends fol. 80, b. with the note, "Explicit tractatus de apostasia et dotacione ecclesiæ."

The second chapter is headed in rubric De dotacione ecclesia, and is perhaps the same which Bale mentions under the same title as a distinct tract, and which he tells us begins Utrum clerus debuerit dotationem.* In the MS. before us the second chapter begins, "As to the possessiouns and dowyng of clerkis, bileeue shulde teche vs that it doith hem harm to kepe Cristis religioun, and harm to lewid men."
XII. "Tractatus de pseudo freris;" beginning, "For many beren heuy that freris ben clepid pseudo or ypocritis, anticristis or fendis, or ony siche name." Fol. 81, a.

This tract is divided into eight chapters ; it is full of curious matter on the controversy with the religious orders, but does not seem to have been known to Bale, Lewis, or Baber. It ends fol. 95, b.
XIII. "Of the eight woes that God wished to freris ;" beginning, "Crist biddeth rs be waar with thes false pro-[^0]phetis that comen in clothing of sheepe, and ben wolues of raueyn, and thes ben specially men of thes newe ordris." Fol. 96, a.

This is another tract of great interest, unknown to Bale; it consists of an elaborate parallel between the Scribes and Pharisees of the Gospel, and the mendicant orders of the fourteenth century. It ends fol. 101, a, with the note, "Her enden the eighte woois that God wishid to freris. Amen." This is probably the same tract which Lewis describes as a commentary on the text Va vobis Scriba et Pharisai hypocrita:* of which he says there is a copy in the King's Library.
XIV. "Exposicio evangelii Mt. 24. Egressus Jesus de templo, &.c." beginning, "This gospel tellith myche wisdom that is hid to many men; and speciali for this cause, that it is not al red in the chirche." Fol. 101, a.

This is the tract entitled by Bale De Christo et Antichristo, of which there are copies, according to Lewis, in the libraries of Trinity College, and of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. $\downarrow$

In commenting on the verse, "And thanne schal be greet tribulation what maner was neuer bifor fro the biginnyng of the world," our author applies the prophecy to his own times, in the following words:-"But so general strijf as now is among many rewmes, was neuere herd bifore fro the bigynnyng of the world, for al our west lond is with oo pope, or with the tother, and he that is with the ton, hatith the tother with alle hise."

This fixes the date of the tract to the period of the great Western Schism which began A. D. 1378.

It ends fol. 116, b. with the note "Explicit Euangelium."
XV. "Of anticrist, and his meynee," [i. e. his train, family, or followers ;*] beginning, " Dauid seith, Lord sett thou a lawe maker vpon hem. Hit semyth to me, seith Austyn, that this signifieth anticrist." Fol. 117, a.

Bale mentions a tract under the title De Antichristo et membris, in two books; it begins, as he tells us, with the words, "Quemadmodum Dominus Jesus ordinavit," $\neq$ and therefore is most probably not the work now before us, but the tract usually known by the title, "How Antichrist and his clerks travailen to destroy Holy Writ," ${ }^{*}$ which has been published by the "Religious Tract Society," in their volume of the Writings of Wickliffe (Lond. 1831), from the MS. in Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. The piece published by the Tract Society, however, does not appear, from what they have given of it, to have been in two books.

XVI. "Of antecristis song in chirche," beginning "Also prelatis, prestis, and freres putten on symple men that thei seyen, that Goddis office or seruyce ben not to be songen with note." Fol. 124, a.

This work seems to be a continuation of the former, and has escaped the notice of Wickliffe's biographers.
XVII. "Of praier a tretys," beginning "Also bischops and freres putten to pore men that thei seyn, that men owen not rather to praye in chirche themne in other place." Fol. 126, a.

It ends fol. 127, a, with the note, "Explicit tractatus de oratione."
XVIII. A tract entitled "Nota de confessione," and beginning "Two vertues ben in mannes soule by whyche a man shuld be rewled in hoolynesse in mannes wille." Fol. 127, b.

It is divided into thirteen chapters, and ends, fol. 138, a, with the note, "Explicit &c."
XIX. A tract without title, beginning " Crist forsothe camp. soc. 14.
did al that he couthe to obeye to lordis, and mekely and softly speke to hem. But to scribes and to pharisees he spake sharply." Fol. 138, b.
XX. A tract entitled "Nota de sacramento altaris." This title has been blotted with ink by a modern hand, so however that the words are still legible. It begins "Cristen mennes bileeue taust of ihū Crist, God and man, and hise apostles, and seynt Austyn, seynt Jerome, and seynt Ambrose, and of the court of Rome, and alle treue men, is this, that the sacrament of the auter, the which men seen be twene the prestis handis, is verre Cristis body and his blode." Fol. 145, a.
XXI. A tract without title, beginning "Crisostom seith, that fischers and buystouse men, makynge iche daye nettis with here hondes, founden Crist, whom prestis studiynge al day in goddis law founden not." Fol. 146, b.
XXII. Another tract without title, beginning, "Seynt Barnard spekith thus to Eugenye the pope, Supposest thou whether thise tymes wolden suffre, if two men stryuing for ertheli eritage, and axing dome of thee, thou woldest answer the voyce of thi Lord God, Man, who ordeyned me domesman upon zou." Fol, 152, a.
XXIII. A tract without title, beginning, " God moueth hooly chirche bi many maner of spechis to knowe the treuthe of his lawe, and therbi to come to blisse. And thus God spekith bi summe men, as if two persones dispitiden to gidre, the which we clepyn reson and gabbyng, whech ben Crist and the fencle." Fol. 154, b.

This tract is in the form of a Dialogue, in which the speakers are Christ and the Devil. All the foregoing treatises from No. XVI. to this inclusive, appear to have been omitted in the lists of Wickliffe's writings.
XXIV. Another tract without title, written as if it were a continuation of the former, but which from its subject appears to be distinct. It is on the seven gifts of the Holy Ghost, and begins, "And for noither man ne womman may perfitly do the seuen werkis of mercy, withouten the seuen 3eftis of the holy gost." Fol. 161, a.

This may perhaps be the tract mentioned by Lewis under the title " De vii donis Spiritus Sancti."*
XXV. Another tract without title, and written also as if it were a continuation of the preceding, beginning "Clerkys knowen that a man hath five wittes outward, and other fiue wittes inward." Fol. 162, b.

Lewis mentions a tract entitled "Seven bodily wittis," $\downarrow$ but the initial sentence which he quotes does not agree with this.
XXVI. A treatise without title, beginning "Here are questiouns and ansueris putte, &c.'" Fol. 164, a.

This is the work now for the first time published. It occupies 88 pages of the manuscript, and ends fol. 218, a.
XXVII. A short tract without title, on the mystical interpretation of Jacob's ladder, beginning " Hit is writen in the first book of holy writ, that ther weren thre patriarkes in the peple of God." Fol. 218, a.
XXVIII. Another short tract, beginning, "Thes ben the nyne poynts that our Lord Ihu answerid an holy man that coueit to wite what mist most plese rn to God." Fol. 218, b.*
XXIX. A tract without title, beginning " Of the dedis of mercy God will speke at the dredful day, and dome to all his chosun stondyng on his rist side, Come ye blessed childre of my fadre," &c. Fol. 219, a.

This tract is unfortunately imperfect, and ends on the next page; the volume wants some leares, and the last two leaves are much wormed, although perfectly legible. $\downarrow$

It seemed desirable to give this lengthened account of the volume from which the following treatise is taken, not only from the great interest of the collection, comprising

* This little tract has been printed in the "Irish Ecclesiastical Journal," No. 11, (May 1841,) page 183.
+ Some account of this volume was given about three years ago in the British Mazagine, vol. xiv. p. 275, as one of a series of papers on the MSS. of Wickliffe in the Library of the University of Dublin.
as it does many works, which, if Wickliffe's, have not been noticed by his biographers ; but also, and chiefly, because the principal evidence, if not the only evidence, upon which Bale and others appear to have depended in attributing to our Reformer the works of which they have given catalogues, was undoubtedly the company in which those works were found, in such collections as that now before us.

The writer of these pages has already publicly declared his conviction, that we are to this day unable to decide with any certainty what are Wickliffe's genuine works, and what are not.* Bishop Bale, from whose Catalogue of the Reformer's works all subsequent writers have copied, appears to have transcribed without much discrimination the titles of all that he found in the MSS. to which he had access, or which were attributed to Wickliffe by his enemies, or by his friends, and the existence of a tract in any collection, containing one or more of the pieces usually attributed to Wickliffe, was with Bale evidence sufficient to induce him to enter it among the Reformer's writings. ${ }^{\text {d }}$

[^1]It is not, however, quite certain that the following treatise has been noticed by Bale, unless it be the same as the work to which he gives the title of "Replicationes et positiones, lib. 1.;"* and from the remark that has just been made, it appears that, even if it had been more distinctly included in his Catalogue, his authority would not have been of itself sufficient, without other evidence, to satisfy us that it was really from the pen of Wickliffe. The only positive evidence that can be alleged in favour of such a supposition, being its occurrence in a volume which as a MS. is coeval with the Reformer, and which contains so many of the treatises that are commonly attributed to him.

Of evidence on the other side in disproof of the hypothesis that Wickliffe was the author, the most satisfactory would arise from allusions, if any such could be found in adversariorum scriptis collegi." But the Catalogue itself bears intermal evidence of having been in great part derived from the MSS. nany of the works being enumerated in the order in which they occur in MSS. still extant. In neither case, however, can much authority be given to Bale's enumeration of the Reformer's writings, and in particular no inference can fairly be drawn from his omissions.

* Bale, Cent. vi. p. 455. Lewis, No. 231, p. 210 . Bale also mentions " Positiones variæ, lib. i." and "Determinationes quredam, lib. i." but as he has not quoted the initial sentences of any of these works it is impossible to identify them with that now before us.
the Tract, to events subsequent to the Reformer's times, or from quotations of writers who flourished after his death.

With this view the quotations have been diligently examined, and as far as possible verified, and the Editor believes that nothing will be found in the treatise, which, so far as these considerations are concerned, might not have been written by Wickliffe. But, as there are a few cases in which the Editor has been unsuccessful in determining the author of a passage cited, this conclusion must necessarily be received as liable to some uncertainty.

It has been suggested, indeed, as a circumstance inconsistent with the supposition that Wickliffe was the author, that the passages of Scripture cited throughout the treatise, are quoted not from Wickliffe's own rersion. but from some other translation. But if this criterion be applied to the Works admitted to be Wickliffe's by the common consent of his biographers, and cited as such in evidence of his opinions, it will be found to conclude equally against them. Take for example the following version of St. Matt. xxiv. 27,28 , which occurs in the tract entitled by Bale De Christo et Antichristo, and which is admitted to be Wickliffe's, its date being fixed, as we have seen by internal evidence,* to a very late

[^2]period of his life. The corresponding passage from the printed text of Wickliffe's version is given in juxtaposition for the convenience of the reader:-

The Tract De Christo et Antichristo.

As the leyting cometh ont fro the eest, and apperith vn to the west, so shal be comyng of mannes sone to the day of doom: and wher euere the body be, shulen theglis be gederid; and anoon aftir tribulacion of thoo dayes, shal the sunne be maad derk, and the mone shal not zyue his lizt, and sterris shulen falle from heuene, and vertues of heuenes shulen be mouyd.

Wickliffe's New Testament.
As leiyt goith out fro the est, and aperith into the west, so schal be also the comynge of mannes sone, where evere the bodi schal be; also the eglis shulen ben gaderid thidir. And anoon aftir the tribulacoun of tho dayes, the sunne schal be made derk: and the mone schal not zeue her lizt, and the sterris schulen falle fro heuene, and the vertues of heuenes schulen be moeued.

This is a passage in which the similarity to the printed Version is much greater than usually occurs: but it sufficiently proves that we can draw no inference, as to the authorship of any work attributed to Wickliffe, from any such deviations from the text of his Version.

Besides, even allowing the objection its utmost weight, can it in any case prove more than that the tract in which such deviations occur, if by Wickliffe, was composed at a period of his life prior to the completion of his English Version? But not even would this inference be perfectly safe ; for we know that it was the custom of our divines, so late as the reign of Charles I. to translate for themselves such passages of Scripture as they had occasion to cite ; and that notwithstanding the existence of a Version allowed by public authority, and with all the facilities of reference afforded by the art of printing.*

The state of the case, therefore, seems to be, that there is no positive evidence against the supposition that the following work may be Wickliffe's; whilst on the other hand there is no decisive reason for attributing it to him, beyond the fact of its being found in a collection of his acknowledged writings. It may be said, also, that it is evidently the work of a man of learning, well skilled in the canon law, and in the theology of the day, and that it appears, from several expressions, to have been delivered to an assembly of judges, before whom the author was called upon to defend his opinions. Thus he says at the very outset, "First I witness before God Almighty, and all true Christian men and women, and you," &c. And he frequently alludes to some former discourses of the same kind; as, p. 6, "And thus I graunt now, as oft I have knowlechid before many witnesses," &c. and, p. 7 , "To this I seid thus, I reheirsd a doctor that seid thus,"

[^3]&c. These circumstances are all consistent with the supposition that Wickliffe was the author, although it may not perhaps be easy to fix upon the precise period in the recorded events of his life, in which such an apology for his doctrines may be assumed to have been delivered.

There is another source of internal evidence from which it is possible that some light might be thrown upon this question, at least so far as indicating the shire or province in which its author lived. This, however, is a subject which the Editor, being an Irishman, is necessarily incompetent to investigate; and he has therefore thought it safer to leave the discussion of it to others, than to undertake to enter upon it with such imperfect information as he might perhaps have gleaned from books. He felt also that the attempt to fix the locality of an author of the fourteenth century, from the provincial idioms to be found in his writings, must in every case be somewhat precarious: unless we can be supposed to have fully satisfied ourselves that the phrases which are now found to characterize a particular shire, were also peculiar to that shire five centuries ago. And at all events it seemed certain, that no conclusion drawn from such premises against the supposition that Wickliffe was the author of the tract before us, could be deemed perfectly decisive of the question, without a more complete application of the same test to the other writings usually attributed to him, than it is in the power of the Editor to undertake.

It remains now to give some account of the contents of the treatise, which may perhaps help the reader to understand it; and then, a very few remarks on the manner in which it is now for the first time printed, will close all that the Editor has to say in the way of introduction.

It has been already said that the work is an elaborate defence or apology for the principal tenets of the Lollards, pronounced before some court of delegates or judges, by an individual, who if he was not Wickliffe himself, must have been one of his early followers, and a well read theologian of the day.

He thus states his object at the commencement of the Treatise*: "First, I witness before God Almighty, and all true Christian men and women, and you, that it hath not been nor is, nor ever shall be mine intent or purpose to say anything against the Catholic faith; neither [with] intent to beguile or deceive any man or woman, in any-

[^4]thing unprofitable to the eternal salvation of their souls, nor contradicting the words or sentence of any Saint, speaking faithfully."

The following is a list of the propositions which appear to have been objected to our author, in the order in which he has stated and defended them.
I. "That the Pope is not the vicar of Christ, nor of Peter." p. 1.

This he explains to mean, that, if the Pope neglect his duty, he must be considered as having forfeited his claim to the office whose functions he has failed to perform. And the principle assumed in this assertion is defended by various quotations from the canon law, and from holy Scripture.

This was the well known doctrine of Wickliffe and his followers, upon which they grounded their constant assertion that the clergy had no right to their tithes and temporal endowments, except so far as they discharged faithfully their spiritual duties.

The doctrine that the Pope is not the vicar of Christ or of Peter, was attributed to Wickliffe in the Council of Constance, where we find among the articles condemned, the following :-" Credere debet Catholicus, quod nee Imperator, nee universalis ecclesia, nec Deus, de potentia absoluta, ordinare potest, quod eo quod quis succedit, et post Petrum vocatur in facie ecclesiæ Romanus episcopus vel Papa, eo ipso sit caput vel pars ecclesire cui obediendum est." And again,-" Papa fingit mendaciter, quod est summus vicarius Jesu Christi in terris. Sed benedictus Deus qui istud caput ecclesiæ in parte contrivit, et divisit in partes contrarias caput hujusmodi benedictum." ${ }^{*}$
II. "That the Pope selleth indulgence." And "That he may give no indulgence, neither to men in purgatory, nor to them that are prescit, that is to say, that are to be damned, or are now damned." p. 7.

His defence of this point is comprised in the assertions, that the apostles gave no indulgences : that such indulgences can be of no value, unless we can be sure that the Pope who grants them is himself saved; whereas we are certain that many popes who have granted such indulgences are damned. That the indulgences bear internal evidence in themselres of being fictitious, and of none effect; and that the sale of indulgences, if the indulgences were of any value, would be simoniacal and sinful.

Wickliffe's opinion upon this subject, as stated in his articles condemned in the Council of Constance, was as follows : "Quantum ad indulgentias, privilegia, et regula-

[^5]tionem ecclesiæ in lege nova, patet quod foret expediens toti ecclesiæ, quod omnes novitates hujusmodi sint sopitæ. Omnia tamen talia videntur esse phantasmata, nec fundata rationibus, nec Scripturâ."*

And in the "Rationes ac Motiva," given by the council for condemning his opinions, the 41 st article attributed to him is thus expressed: "Fatuum est credere indulgentiis Papæ." $\downarrow$
III. "Of cursing two points. 1. That the ministers of the kirk ought not to curse and to wary. 2. That the kirk may not righteously curse a righteous man." p. 13.

The first he explains by saying that the ministers of the Church may curse, provided they do not use the power for their own private ends, but for the glory of God.

To the second he answers by distinguishing two senses in which the curse of the Church may be righteously denounced. First, when the person cursed justly merits such a sentence. And, secondly, when the curse is pronounced according to the forms of law. In this latter sense, when the evidence goes against a man who is really innocent, the Church may, nevertheless, be blameless in pronouncing sentence against him, in so far as the curse is pronounced legally and in due form: but in the other sense, a righteous man cannot be lawfully, or in the sight of God, rendered accursed, by the sentence of the Church. This is confirmed by a dissertation on the different senses of the word curse, and by citations from the canon law.

* Ibid. p. 275.
+ Orth. Gratii Fasciculus, tom. i. p. 294. See also Jo. Wiclef Trialogus, lib. iv. cap. xxxii.

In the "Rationes et Motiva," already referred to, the 11 th article attributed to Wickliffe is, " Nullus preelatus debet aliquem excommunicare, nisi prius sciat ipsum excommunicatum a Deo: et qui sic excommunicat, fit hæreticus ex hoc, vel excommunicatus."*
IV. "That Christ was cursed." p. 2.-.

This is explained by distinguishing the three senses in which a man may be said to be cursed. First, by sin, when by his guilt he excommunicates himself. Secondly, when he is excommunicated by the Church, as a means of leading him to repentance. Thirdly, when he is cursed by men unjustly.

In this last way only can Christ be said to be cursed ; and that in three senses, either as having taken upon Him that nature of man, which was under a curse : or in His own Person, as having been cursed unjustly by man

[^6]and condemned to an ignominious death; or lastly, in His members, who are one with Him, and in whom, when they are unjustly condemned, He also suffers excommunication.
V. " That each priest may use the key to every man." p. 28.

This proposition was a favourite one with the Lollards, and was levelled against episcopal jurisdiction ; the meaning being, that every priest not only has power, but is bound, to exercise his office independently of the license of his bishop, and even in opposition to an express prohibition. It is in this sense that our author here defends it, and it was thus that a similar proposition was frequently defended by the Lollards: take for example the sixth conclusion alleged against William of Swinderby. "That ech priest may assoil him that sinneth, contrition had; and notwithstanding forbiddings of the bishop, is holden to preach to the people the gospel." To this he answers, "Thus I said not, but thus I said, and yet say, with pro-testation made before; That ech true priest may counsel sinful men that shewen to him her sins, after the wit and cunning that God hath given him, to turn fro sin to vertuous life. And as touching preaching of the gospel, I say, that no bishop ows to let a true priest, that God hath given grace, wit, and cunning to do that office; for both priests and deacons, that God hath ordained deacons and priests, ben holden by power given hem of God, to preach to the people the gospel, and namely and somely popes, bishops, prelates, and curates," &c.*

Our author here uses the same form of argument, viz. that, inasmuch as all power of binding and loosing is from God, a priest, who has received that power from God, possesses it as fully as a bishop; and that originally, by the testimony of St. Jerome, the order of priest was the same as that of bishop. These were the well known errors of the Lollards, and our author (p. 30) incidentally mentions the consequence that was commonly drawn from them by his sect, namely, that confirmation might be ministered by priests. $\downarrow$
VI. "Iche prest is holdun to preche." p. 30.

This was another favourite doctrine of the Lollards, closely connected with the former. Its meaning is, that the office of priesthood in itself imposed the duty of preaching, without any necessity of license from a bishop,

* Fox, Acts and Monuments, vol. i. p. 534. Lond. fol. 1684. So also in the "Rationes et Motiva" at the council of Constance, the 34th art. attributed to Wickliffe is, "Licet alicui diacono vel presbytero prædicare verbum Dei, absque authoritate apostolicæ sedis, vel episcopi authoritate." Brown, Fasciculus, tom. i. p. 291.

and even in opposition to the bishop's inhibition; and whether the priest had cure of souls or not. Our author's argument is this: "Every man is holden to do what Christ enjoineth him to do : but Christ enjoineth every priest to preach; therefore every priest is bound to doso."*
VII. "If any hear the mass of a priest that liveth in lechery, and knoweth him to be such, he sinneth deadly." p. 37.

In proof of this position our author relies chiefly upon the decrees of the two Roman synods under Nicholas II. and Alexander II. in the years 1059 and 1063 , in the first of which it was ordained that no married priest, or, as the synod expressed it, no priest having a concubine, should celebrate mass, or assist at its celebration ; and in the second, the laity were enjoined not to hear the mass of such a priest. $\gamma$

Applying these canons to priests guilty of fornication, our author maintains the extreme position of his sect, that to receive the ministrations of such priests is a

* See the Note on p. 31, line 29.
$\dagger$ These enactments are given rather inaccurately in Gratian's Decretum, Dist. xxxii. c. 5 and 6. They will be found in the councils. (Hardouin, tom. vi. col. 1062, c. and 1139, c.) The decree of Alexander II. was the dangerous example afterwards followed by Gregory VII. of calling in the assistance of popular indignation in support of ecclesiastical canons. See Bowden's Life of Gregory VII. vol. ii. p. 25.
mortal sin; and that ignorance of the real character of the priest does not excuse the laity from this guilt, unless due inquiry has first been made. He then quotes several other decisions of popes and other ancient writers, condemning profligacy in the clergy, which, however, are more or less inapplicable to the question, because they do not make the people the judges or punishers of the delinquents.

The principle assumed in this proposition was the ground of many similar conclusions in the theology of the Lollards ; as for example, that the incontinence of the clergy released their parishioners from the obligation to pay tithe; that the priest in deadly sin cannot consecrate the Body of Christ, nor minister efficaciously the other sacraments.* And these principles continued, even to the period of the Reformation, to produce such pernicious effects, that it was thought necessary to affirm

[^7]the contrary doctrine in one of the thirty-nine articles of religion.*
VIII. "He that curseth any man, or denounceth him as cursed, when he is not cursed, breaketh God's commandments, by bearing false witness against his neighbour." p. 40.

This proposition our author asserts to "shew itself sooth," that is to be self-evident. $\gamma$
IX. "It is a taking of damnation that a man lead his life in poverty." p. 40.

Our author's defence of this proposition consists in an explanation of the sense in which poverty is a duty and lawful, and of the sense in which the profession of it is dangerous and a sin. It is probably in intent and meaning the same as the twenty-fourth article attributed to Wickliffe in the Council of Constance, which is thus expressed: "Fratres tenentur per labores manuum victum acquirere, non autem per mendicitatem." $\downarrow$
X. "Fastings are not necessary, while a man abstaineth himself from other sin." p. 44.

This assertion is supported by a reference to the words

* See Art. xxvi. "Of the unworthiness of the ministers which hindereth not the effect of the sacraments."
+ See the fifth conclusion against Willian Swinderby. Fox, ubi supra.
$\ddagger$ "Rationes et Motiva," apud Brown, Fascicul. tom. i. p. 287.
of Joel, ii. 16, "Sanctify a fast," and by a passage from one of S. Gregory's Homilies. The right use of fasting, however, is asserted, and the benefits of it, when so used, enumerated.
XI. "That the priest is not holden to his canonical hours, except he be to $\operatorname{sing}$ [i. e. to officiate]." p. 44.

To this our author answers, " I deny not my having said this, from fear of the danger to which I am exposed by the law ; for if it were proved in evidence against me, though it were false, if I denied, I should still be condemned as guilty. And on the other hand I grant not that I said it, that I lie not against myself, for I wot not that I said it, and man's mind [i. e. memory] is slender. If I have been in fault, I ask forgiveness, and I will mend."

After this confession, he takes occasion to urge, that if priests feel themselves so strongly bound to their canonical hours, imposed upon them by human authority, how much more should they esteem the obligation of that charge which they have received from Christ himself.*

It appears, therefore, that our author's doctrine on this

[^8]head was much the same as that of William Sawtrey or Chantris, priest ; the seventh article alleged against whom, in his examination before the Archbishop of Canterbury in 1399, was, "That every priest and deacon is more bound to preach the Word of God, than to say canonical hours;" which proposition (although he afterwards recanted) he at that time admitted to be a fair statement of his opinions: his own words are, "And also I say, that every deacon and priest is more bound to preach the Word of God than to say his canonical hours, according to the primitive order of the church."*
XII. "That in the sacrament of the altar, after the consecration, dwelleth the substance of the bread." p. 45.

Here our author plainly alludes to some former work or discourse on this subject. "And in this matter," he says, "I remember that I have spoken and rehearsed the words of the Apostle, and other doctors, that they speak on this matter; for Paul saith, the bread that we break is the partaking of the Body of Christ."

He goes on then to quote several passages from the Decretum, which, however, seem to bear but little on the subject. Amongst the rest he quotes the famous canon Ego Berengarius, as if it were a testimony in his favour.

He distinctly asserts the Real Presence, although he denies transubstantiation. The following passage (p. 47) deserves to be here quoted: "This is that we say, and in all manners strive to prove, viz. the sacrifice of the church to stand together in two things, and to be made in two things together : that is, the visible species of elements, and the invisible flesh and blood of our Lord Jesu Christ: the sacrament, and the thing of the sacrament, that is the Body of Christ ; as the Person of Christ standeth together of God and man, for he is very God and man. For every thing containeth in itself the truth and the nature of those things that it is made of; this thing that is seen is bread, and the cup that the eyes shew; but this that faith asketh to be in form of the bread is the Body of Christ."*

This is in full agreement with the doctrine maintained by Wickliffe in the Trialogus, lib. iv. c. 2, sq. and by most of the early Lollards.

X1II. "That churches are not to be worshipped, nor sergs [i. e. candles, tapers $\dagger$ ] to be multiplied therein." p. 48.

In support of this proposition our author quotes Jerome,

* This last clause is very obscure, and is probably corrupt in the original. It is here emended conjecturally; the meaning appears to be " that which faith discerns under the form of the bread is the Body of Christ."
$\dagger$ See the Note on p. 48, line 8.
from the Decretum ; also William de St. Amour, Chrysostom, the Decretals, and the Decretum. His remarks are chiefly levelled at the abuses then so prevalent, of superstitious offerings of candles, &c. in the churches, and the traffic carried on, within the sacred edifices themselves, of the trinkets necessary for such purposes; from which he digresses into the subject of simoniacal practices among the clergy.
XIV. " That priests to sing may not first make covenant, without simony." p. 52.

This proposition our author supports by citing some passages from the canon law, and other authorities against simony. See the notes, p. 152, sq.
XV. " That the pope, cardinals, bishops, and other prelates beneath [i. e. of inferior degree] are disciples of Antichrist and sellers of marit." p. 53.

In proof of this proposition he quotes the well known passages of St. John's epistle, to shew that all who are contrary to Christ in their life or faith may be rightly called Antichrists. He then shews by extracts from the writings of several popular authors, that this accusation might fairly be brought against the prelates and clergy of the day. The writers quoted for this purpose are Robert Grosthead, Bishop of Lincoln, in his famous sermon before the Pope and Cardinals, at the Council of Lyons,
A. D. 1250 ;* the sermons of Odo, ${ }^{\boldsymbol{}}$ and the Verbum Abbreviatum of Peter Cantor Parisiensis. ${ }_{\star}^{}$
XVI. "That there is no pope ne Cristis vicar, but an holy man." p. 58.

In defence of this proposition our author cites the words of Holy Scripture, and of Gratian, St. Jerome, Pope Symmachus, St. Gregory, and St. Bernard, to prove the necessity of holiness in the priesthood, and the vanity of the dignity of sacerdotal functions without this higher qualification.
XVII. "That a judge giving sentence against an innocent man, sinneth mortally." p. 60.

In this proposition he evidently has reference to the proceedings against the Lollards; he proves it by quoting the definition of a judge from Isidore, and by stating the obligation which rests upon every judge to discern the truth and decide according to the right. For this he quotes St. Austin, St. Ambrose, St. Gregory, and many passages of Holy Scripture. He argues also that it is no excuse to a judge who condemns the innocent, that he has given sentence and conducted the trial in accordance with the forms of human law, because the Divine law, which forbids the condemnation of an innocent man, is of superior obligation. He states also another class of objections and refutes them. As "that God Himself condemneth the righteous along with the guilty, and Christ gave Himself to the death. Abraham was ready to slay his innocent son, Sampson slew himself in slaying the Philistines, David slew the Amalekite (2 Sam. i.) for a crime of which he was not really guilty. And thus by these examples it seemeth that man may give sentence, yea, even to slay the innocent." To these objections he answers, first, "God may do what He will, and therefore in some things it is not enough to us, God doth thus, therefore we may do thus." Secondly, Abraham "was not in will to slay his son," but acted by the command of God, and was blessed of God for his faith and obedience. Thirdly, "Of Sampson men say, either that he had the command of God, or repented after ;" and as to David, " all his deeds are not to be followed," nor was the Amalekite innocent in the sight of God, for he thought to have pleased David, and to have obtained a reward for slaying Saul, and " for his lying he was a murderer," and therefore deserved his fate.

XVIII. "That a priest assoiling a feigner (a hypocrite), sinneth mortally." p. 66.

This assertion our author maintains without any attempt at qualifying it. For the priest [he reasons] who assoils a hypocrite, must either do so from carelessness, or ignorantly, recklessly, and by error. And in either case he is guilty of sin ; whether he pretend to absolve, as author, from the punishment of sin, or as minister, to promise that God will do so. He sins, moreover, in that he gives occasion to the guilty man to trust in the absolution, and to continue in his sin; and also because by such an absolution " the priest beareth false witness, and professeth himself to know and to do what he neither knoweth nor doeth, and depriveth God of His majesty, making the man to trust in leasing, and so to do sacrifice to the devil."

These views are supported by the authority of the Prophet Ezekiel, St. Gregory, St. Bede, and St. Ambrose. He sums up his doctrine thus: "The priest may know that he hath not power to assoil, except so far as God giveth him commandment; now God saith thus: If thy brother $\sin$, rebuke him : and if he forsake his sin, cease thou to rebuke him: but if he will not forsake his sin, proceed against him before witnesses: and if he will not hear you, be he then unto thee as an heathen man, and a publican. And whomsoever ye so bind, shall be bound, and whomsoever ye bring out of sin,* the punishment shall be remitted him. He commandeth not here to curse him that sinneth not, nor to assoile him that abideth in sin ; but, on the contrary, to assoile him that forsaketh his $\sin$, and excommunicate him that continueth in his sin." $\downarrow$
XIX. "That marriage made in the third or fourth degree, although contrary to the ordinance of the Church, is rate and stable." p. 70.

He explains this to mean, that such a marriage cannot be held null, so that the man should be free to marry another woman, or the woman another man. And his argument is this: with the dispensation or confirmation of the Church such a marriage is valid; but the Church could not ratify it, unless it were previously ratified and valid in the sight of God; therefore the marriage is not in its own nature contrary to the law of God, for, if it were, no dispensation or ratification by the Church could render it lawful. This opinion he supports by some passages from the Decretum, in which it is admitted that the law forbidding marriages within certain degrees of consanguinity is of human institution merely, and no part of the law of God.

* Our author's gloss upon the words quemcunque solveritis in terra, "wam pat $j$ e bring out of synne" is remarkable. It is not to be taken as a translation, but as an exposition of the passage. In the printed text of Wickliffe's New Testament the words are rendered "what ever thingis ge unbynden on erthe, tho shulen be unbounden also in hevene." Matt. xviij. 18.

On the whole, he concludes that marriages within the third and fourth degrees of consanguinity ought to be avoided; but that when made they are valid, and cannot be regarded as null, or as marriages made within the degrees forbidden by the law of God, for these he admits are unlawful and void.*
$\mathbf{X X}$. "That the Church by solemnising matrimony in a degree forbidden, erreth, consenting to sin, and authorising sin." p. 71.

This position is thus proved. The marriage of cousins in the third and fourth degree is forbidden only by the law of the Church. It is therefore no sin in itself, but only by the law of the Church. Now St. Paul saith, "If I build again the thing that I throw down, I make myself a transgressor ;" therefore the particular Church that celebrates a matrimony forbidden by the law of the universal Church is a transgressor; authorising the sin of those whom she should have warned against a violation of the law, and thus consenting to sin.

[^9]XXI. "That Canon Law is contrary to God's law; and that decretists, as to that part of wisdom that they have of the world's wisdom, are Egyptians.* And that by the science of Canon Law. holy writ is blasphemed, yea God Himself who is the lawgiver. And that it were well if this science were in a great measure driven as chaff out of the Church." p. 73.

These assertions are defended by extracts from several writers. The first is from an author who is not named, who objects to the canon law ; that it tends to strife and debate, and is therefore contrary to the spirit of the Gospel ; that it is of human origin, and that it is too closely allied to civil law, and that " from the commixture of these two laws is in diverse ways sown great seed of discord in the Church of God." St. Chrysostom is also cited, for the sentiment that "man's law" is busied in carnal things, and putteth carnal things present, before spiritual things to come. The other writers cited are "Parisiensis" (i. e. most probably Peter de Poictiers, commonly called "Cantor Parisiensis" $\downarrow$ ), Gregory, Austin, Odo, and some whose names are not given. One very long extract, from a writer who is cited as "an other witti in that same law," the Editor regrets very much his inability to trace to any author whose works are printed or within his reach. This writer, as our author quotes

him, urges eighteen formal objections against "the new law," by which term he probably intends the additions made to the five books of the Decretals of Gregory IX. by Popes Boniface VIII. Clement V. and John XXII. between the years 1298 and 1326.* Most of his objections have reference to the temporal power and exemption from secular dominion, claimed for the clergy in the new decretals. As that no priest or clerk should be subject to secular lords: that the lands of the Church should pay no tribute; and that simony, heresy, usury, adultery, perjury, should be punished by the ecclesiastical courts only. He objects also to the abuses which, though not actually enjoined in the law, were nevertheless tolerated or permitted; as the superabundant wealth of the clergy, their being engaged in secular employments and offices, their bribery and corruption; the right of prescription; the abuses of indulgences and remissions ; the neglect of the ancient custom of requiring the assent of the people in the ordination of ministers ; the com-

[^10]pounding for penance with money; the simoniacal abuse of proctorships, customs, and other expenses ; the grants of privileges and exemptions from episcopal jurisdiction ; corrupt decisions of law in matrimonial causes ; cases in which a judge is compelled by the law to pronounce a sentence which he knows to be false; cases of unjust excommunication; decisions of lawyers in cases of marriage between cousins; and contradictions between the law and the words or precepts of holy Scripture.*
XXII. "That no man is Christ's disciple unless he keep Christ's counsel." p. 81.

In explanation of this position our author divides the counsels of the Gospel $\downarrow$ into two classes, the first consist-

* See the Articles condemned as Wickliffe's in the Council of Constance, No. 38. "Decretales epistolæ sunt apocryphæ, et seductivæ a fide Christi, et Clerici sunt stulti qui eas student." Orthuini Gratii Fascicul. ed. Browne, tom. i. p. 292.
+ It may be well to remind the general reader that theologians distinguish between the counsels and the commands of Christ. The latter are absolute, founded on the principles of immutable morality, or our natural duties to God and man, and are consequently equally binding upon all men, in all places and under all circumstances, and absolutely necessary to salvation. The counsels of Christ on the other hand relate not to things necessary, but to things expedient, leading us not to holiness, but to higher degrees of holiness, not to salvation, but to higher degrees of glory. "Hæc est differentia," says St. Thomas Aquinas, "inter consilium et praceptum, quod preceptum importat necessitatem, consilium autem in optione ponitur ejus cui ing of those which are counsels of perfection to all Christians : as the three counsels of poverty, continence, and obedience ; the second consisting of those which are addressed to some and not to all, as when our Lord said to the young man in the Gospel, "If thou wilt be perfect, go sell all that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have riches in heaven." And he concludes, that, in reference to the former class, no man is Christ's disciple unless he keep Christ's counsels. It is true, he admits, that in a general sense all men are Christ's disciples, who by the law of nature follow His teaching : and that in au especial manner those that followed Him by the knowledge of the law of Moses, may be said to have been his disciples; but in the highest sense are they His disciples who follow Him in the Gospel, and to these it is necessary to obey His counsels, unless they would go back, like Judas, and walk no more with Him. For He Himself has said that no man may be his disciple unless he datur: et ideo convenienter in lege nova, que est lex libertatis, supra pracepta sunt addita consilia: non autem in veteri lege, que erat lex servitutis. Oportet igitur quod procepta novae legis intelligantur esse data de his que sunt necessaria ad consequendum finem æternæ beatitudinis, in quem lex nova immediate introducit ; consilia vero oportet esse de illis per quæ melius et expeditius potest homo consequi finem predictum." renounce all things that he hath and take up his cross and follow Christ. Our author concludes thus: "it followeth plainly that, though a man be Christ's disciple in some degree, nevertheless in some degree [i. e. in the highest degree, as just explained,] he is not Christ's disciple, but if he keep Christ's counsel."* It would seem, therefore, to be our author's meaning that all counsels of perfection, except such as were specially addressed to an individual, are binding upon all Christians as such, and have the force of commands.
XXIII. " That each man is holden to do the better." p. 83.

This position appears to have reference to the former, and to signify that in a case of interference or opposition between a commandment of God and a counsel, or between two counsels, the commandment, or the counsel which is of superior obligation, should be preferred. Our author has not expressed himself very clearly in his defence of this position, which is chiefly occupied in defining three senses in which a thing may be said to be better than another, viz. in its nature, form, or virtue. But the quotations he has given from the Scriptures, and from St. Jerom, appear to show that his meaning was as stated above.

[^11]XXIV. "That Images of the saints are not to be worshipped." p. 85.

In defence of this proposition the author quotes St. Gregory the Great, and a writer whom he describes anonymously as " another;" also the second commandment, and other passages of Scripture.

He then states as an objection, that these passages refer to the images of the heathen, in which they worshipped the devil, not to the images "brought in by the Church." In other words that the Scriptures prohibit not every use of images, but only that use of them which would substitute them as an object of worship in the place of God : and for this he quotes the Decretum.

To this he answers that doubtless no true Christian men do honour the images of the saints as God: but others who are not true Christians do; and there are many ways of committing idolatry; as first, when a man "setteth in his affection anything before God." Secondly, " of undue order and cause ;" and this in three ways, as giving to a creature what is due only to God; or honouring God irreverently; or honouring the creature for God. He asserts that many fall into these errors: "that many believe the image to be God, and many believe God's virtue to be in the image subjectively, and therefore are more affect to one image than to another, which is doubtless INTRODUCTION.idolatry, as true men say." These abuses he maintains should be amended ; and confirms his opinion by passages from St. Austin, St. Clement, St. Chrysostom, St. Bernard, St. Jerom, and the Archdeacon.

XXV. "That the Gospel written is not to be worshipped." p. 90.

This proposition is levelled against the superstition of hanging "the Gospel," that is a few verses of the Gospel, about the neck as a charm. This he refutes by the authority of St. Chrysostom, St. Jerom, and St. Austin; and he adds, that when men hear the Gospel in the Church and are not saved, and inquire "whether the Gospel is in leaves of words, or in virtue," they are to be answered, "If it were in the leaves, thou hangest it reasonably about thy neck; but since it is not in the leaves of the parchment, but in the virtue, and by hearing thou art not healed, therefore in vain thou hangest the leaves about thy neck."*

He then states the objection, "But if thou say, by the touching of Christ's body many were healed, and by the touching of his clothes, as the Gospel sheweth, and the Apostle sent napkins to put on men shaking with devils, and the devils were driven away. And it is said that a woman made an image of Christ, and an herb by touching [^12]thereof received the virtue of healing.* Therefore men may trust in such things." To this he answers, first "That Christ is more excellent, more full of virtue, than creatures." $\downarrow$ Secondly, "they that were healed, were not healed simply by the touching, but for the trust that they reposed finally in God." Thirdly, "that such things were at first permitted, and miracles wrought for rude men, to confirm them in the faith. But now that all is plain and open, it is vain and superstitious for the people to have such things." And for this he quotes Chrysostom and Bede. ${ }_{\star}^{*}$

XXVI. "These are two other points. One, that charms in no manner are lawful. Another, that it is superstitious to hang words at the neck." p. 92.

In defence of these positions our author quotes the

* This story is told of the woman whose issue of blood was healed by touching the hem of our Lord's garment. See Note, p. 91, 1. 24.
$\dagger$ In the original " more excellent and vertuosar than other creatures." This would seem to a modern reader to imply that Christ was a creature. But such was not our author's meaning, nor the import of his language, as it would have been understood in his own day. The word creatures is grammatically in apposition with other : as if he had said "more excellent than others, i. e. than creatures." Comp. Luke x. 1. Rom. viii. 39, in our English Version.
$\ddagger$ In this part of the work our author repeatedly refers to some former discourse or treatise. "I have rehersid the sentence of Chrysostom, p. 90. "And to this I seid thus," p. 91. "And to theis I have said thus," $p$. !2. Sce p. xxi.

Mosaic law and the prophet Isaiah, confirming his doctrine by citations from St. Austin and the Decretum. He shows by these authorities that witchcraft, charms, enchantments, and divinations in every form are unlawful, both by the law of God, and by the law of the Church. And that Christian men, when visited with sickness or any kind of peril, should have recourse, not to charms, augurs, or diviners, but to God; that after the example of Job they should confess their sins to the Almighty, and beg His forgiveness, "and take then such medicines as God hath made and commanded, and deceive not themselves vainly, nor incur further indignation." For St. James has said, "Whoso needeth any wisdom or help for anything, let him ask of God, and all that is needful shall plentifully be given unto him."*

He then proceeds to enter more at length into the subject, defining the charms and enchantments forbidden, to be such as are " brought in by accursed devils and by suggestion of devils, contrary to the commandments of God, or else by man's vanity and folly, without authority of God Almighty, in which men hope for help without Him, or even in opposition to Him, like heathen men or infidels." He then defines the various kinds of charmers,

[^13]as enchanters, ariolers, aruspicers, augurs, dreamers, necromancers, geomancers, hydromancers, piromancers, sortilegers, &c. concluding " that, since God hath forbidden these things, as well as holy doctors and the Church, it is vain and superstitious, and a species of idolatry, to use such things against so many commands, authorities, witnesses, and counsels."

He next supposes an objector to urge that "such things are useful, because God hath given virtue to herbs, to words, and stones, and men often see by the evidence of their senses that such things help." To this he answers, " it is true that God hath given virtue to all things that He hath made, and hath ordained how they shall be used, and to what end. And therefore ought every man to use them as He ordaineth, but not in a way contrary to His ordinance, or without it. This, therefore, gives no proof that these things profit when hung about the neck, unless we find it written and bidden so to use them." And again, "when men say such things help, this is not certain without better proof." He then proceeds to point out some of the causes to which the apparent success of such charms is to be attributed, and concludes by an earnest exhortation to trust in the goodness and providence of the Almighty, and not in the unlawful and uncertain aid of charms, forbidden alike by the authority of the Church, and by the testimony of Holy Scripture.
XXVIII. "That the vow of religion is against Christ's Gospel." p. 100.

Here our author first explains " that the name of religion is taken in many manners." As first "for the truth that ruleth a man to serve duly his Maker" Secondly, " for the act and state proceeding of this religion." And thirdly, " materially, for the persons thus inclined." The present question, however, relates chiefly to the second signification of the term, in which those are called religious, "who depart from other people by sects [or orders], founden by traditions, and other sensible rites."

He then explains the nature of a vow, and shows that it may be wise or unwise, profitable or unprofitable, lawful or unlawful. Hence he says, "four things are required to every vow that obligeth," viz. " first, principally, that it be made to God." Secondly, "that it be in such things only as are good and profitable to the salvation of the soul : and not in things evil, or unlawful, or noyous [i. e. injurious] to any man, nor letting to any commandment of God, or counsel of Christ." Thirdly,
"that it be made with deliberation." And, fourthly, "that it be wilful."

He concludes, therefore, that "if the vow of religion [i. e. the vow taken upon entering one of the religious orders or the monastic state] be thus circumstanced, then it is pleasing to God, and in accordance with the Gospel ; else if it be in a contrary manner begun, followed, or continued, who doubteth that it is not $\sin$ ?"

He then enumerates several ways in which " the vow of religious men or of any man" may be against the Gospel, and therefore unlawful ; as when men vow " that they will not eat flesh, till they be avenged of some man :" or "to fast, or to go pilgrimage, for to do their lechery or vengeance on some man." Also when men "bind themselves to keep any estate or degree," or to observe any monastic rule, " more for the sake of highness of the world, or worldly riches, or lust of flesh." Again, he instances in the case of the friars, their obligation to live by begging, " which is against the Gospel;" their vow to abstain from meats, " against Christ's freedom, that biddeth His disciples eat such things as men set before them ;" for which " forbidding men to be wedded, and abstaining from meats," they are also reproved of the Apostle, 1 Tim. iv. Further, "when they vow to keep camd. soc. 14.
an obit, or other rites, although God promiseth no reward for keeping such, but rather reproves them :" when they so vow obedience to the superiors of their several orders, as to "put their will under man's will, more than under the will of God," that they may not do even what God biddeth them do, if their superior bid them refrain, or do the contrary ; and " when religious men are letten by their vow from preaching of God's Word, and from fulfilling the deeds of mercy ;" in all these cases, he concludes, " it is certain that their vow is against the Gospel."

In confirmation of these views, he quotes the book $O n$ Contemplative Life, commonly attributed to St. Prosper; also St. Bernard, and Grosthead, bishop of Lincoln, with many passages of Scripture; concluding with the words of St. James, "If any ween him [i. e. suppose himself] to be religious, not refraining his tongue, but deceiving his heart, his religion is vain. Religion clean before God, and before the Father, is this, to visit the fatherless, and motherless, and widows, in their tribulation, and keep himself unspotted from the world."
XXIX. "That religious men are bound to bodily works." p. 105.

This he proves by testimonies of holy Scripture : also by the authority of St. Augustine, the Decretum of Gratian, and the rules of St. Francis and St. Benedict; in which last, special times and hours are set apart for the labour of the friars.
XXX. "That it is not lawful for the religious to beg." p. 108.

This he explains, that "though it be lawful to every man to beg in need, nevertheless it is not lawful to any man without need," or for the purpose of " gathering much worldly riches, or to enable him to waste his time in idleness, or waste himself and his goods, and those of other men, in lusts and in other vain curiosities."

He then shews in what sense begging may be lawful, but asserts that " wilful begging of stalworth [or ablebodied] men is forbidden to every Christian man, by the Apostle of Christ, and by God Himself;" and that St. Paul commands the excommunication of such as "walk disorderly, working not at all." (2 Thess. iii. 10-14.) From which our author reasons thus:-" And since no man ought to be cast out from the communion of Christian men, except for deadly sin, it followeth that he sinneth mortally, that wilfully and wittingly bindeth himself to such a state, contemning travail,* as that he beg for ever."

* The words "contening traveil" (p. 109, ]. 13) are printed exactly as they stand in the MS. but "contening" is probably a mistake for "contemning." The omission of a line over the $e$ would make the whole difference.

This position is defended by many texts of Scripture, and by the authorities of Augustine, the Decretum, the Glossa ordinaria, Jerome, Prosper, the Golden Legend, and St. Gregory.
'I'he foregoing brief summary of the contents of the treatise, and of the arguments employed by the author, may be of some use, it is hoped, in assisting the reader, to whom the antiquated language of the original may be an impediment. It may serve also to establish the truth of what has been already said, that the treatise contains nothing inconsistent with the supposition that Wicliffe was its author. No writer of a later date than Wicliffe appears to have been cited in it; and the general moderation of its tone and doctrine would seem to indicate, that it procceded from a man of learning, and was composed at an early period of the great religious movement of which Wicliffe is regarded as the leader.

It remains now to say something in the way of explanation, and something perhaps also of apology, for certain peculiarities of the present publication.

The Editor has taken great pains to furnish an exact transcript of the MS. from which the work has been printed: even its obvious errata have been religiously retained (except where they were corrected by the original scribe), and all conjectural emendations, however necessary or certain, have been rescrved for the notes.* This seemed the indispensable duty of an Editor who had undertaken to print from a single manuscript; not only to preserve such traces of the true readings as even the mistakes of transcribers sometimes enable us to discern, but also because it appeared desirable to retain exactly the orthography of the original.

No attempt has been made to represent the contractions of the MS. which would have served no useful end, even if it could have been effected without getting type expressly cast for the purpose; but the use of two Saxon letters 3 and $p$ has been retained, because they appeared to form an essential part of the orthography of the period to which the MS. belongs.

For this, however, the Editor feels some apology to be necessary, as the use of the $b$ especially was persisted in

* The only deviations that have been permitted are, first, in the case of proper names, the name of God, $& c$. which are written in the MS. sometimes with small, and sometimes with capital initial letters. In the printed tract capital letters have been uniformly employed. Secondly, in the punctuation; which has been conformed to the sense, and to the modern notation. The punctuation of the MS. is highly capricious and irregular, and no object would have been attained by attempting to preserve it. The marginal summaries, and references to the Scriptures and Fathers, although the greater part of them occur in the original, have been in some cases added by the Editor for the sake of uniformity.
on his own responsibility entirely, and in opposition to the judgment of the Council of the Camden Society ; to whom he takes this opportunity of returning his thanks for the deference they have paid in this, as well as in another instance, to his wishes.

His principal reason for desiring to retain this ancient letter, was because it seemed to him to form a part of the orthography of the language, at the period to which the MS. belongs ; and because he does not believe that its place can be adequately supplied by any modern substitute.

In the fourteenth century, the compound letter th does not appear to have had the soft or aspirated sound which now belongs to it; it had the hard sound which in German it still retains, and was written chiefly in foreign words, or when the $t$ and $h$ were in different syllables, as in such words as priesthood, knighthood. In some few instances in the following pages, th will be found at the beginning of a syllable, but always in words where $t$ is now employed, and where the th had therefore most probably the hard sound.* For example theching, (p. 33,

* Macpherson, in his edition of "W yntoun's Cronykil of Scotland," has the following remark on the difference of $p$ and $t h$. " $\boxplus, p$ expresses the sound now marked by th in that, this; whereas such words as think, thing, are written with th; and this distinction with very few exceptions (apparently faults of transcribers) is constantly observed." (General rules for reading Wyntoun's Cronykil, vol. i. d. p. 2.) This distinction (which is no more than the difference

1. 31) for "teaching;" bi thwex, (p. 38, l. 11) for "betwixt;" thwo, (ib. 1. 13) for "two;" throwip, (p. 40, l. 26) for "troweth," i. e. believeth. These peculiar spellings could not have been retained or noticed, had the character $b$ been every where replaced by th in printing the treatise.

Less objection seems to have been made to the retention of the letter 3 ; and it was, in fact, impossible, without altogether reducing the words in which it occurred to modern spelling, to find any real substitute for it. It is now generally represented by the soft or quiescent $g h$, as in such words as thought, though; but frequently also by $g$, hard, and by.$~ I n$. some words it is represented by $h$, and in some it is now altogether dropped. For example, it is now soft or quiescent in taust, taught; ri3t, right; lizt, light; hi3t, hight, [i. e. promise, ] \&c. It is represented by hard $g$, in $a_{j} e n$, against ; forjet, forget; $3 e f i n g$, giving; jate, gate; $3 a f$, gave, \&c. It has become $h$, in $3 e l$, health ; zed, heed; zerd, herd (i. e. shepherd) ; jer, hear, \&c. It is $y$ in $\xi$ owe, you; zet, yet; 30 ng , young; jere, year; zeld, yield; enplized, employed; byzar, buyer; sha, yea. And it has been between $\gamma$ and $\wp$ ) is probably characteristic of Scotch MSS. The Editor has not. observed any such use of th as distinguished from $p$ in the English MS. of the fourteenth and fifteenth century to which he has had access.
altogether dropped in the modern spelling of $j e r p$, earth; frujt, fruit; zerle, earl; abijd, abide. In some cases it has been used for $z$, as bow; and, for thousand; solempnizid, for solemnized, \&c.; but in these cases $\approx$ perhaps ought to have been printed, although no difference can be observed in the MS. between the 3 used for $g, g h, y, h, \& c$. and the 3 used for $\approx$.

On the whole it appeared impossible to substitute for these letters their modern representatives, without admitting a principle that should have led to the translation of the whole treatise into modern spelling, a task which the Editor had not undertaken to perform. Nor did it seem to him that, while the antient orthography in other respects was retained, much additional inconvenience could result to the reader from the presence of the two letters 3 and $p$. Those who took the trouble to read the tract at all, and who were resolved to master the other difficulties which its language presents to a modern reader, would become familar enough with those letters before they had perused half-a-dozen pages; and it is hoped that such readers will perceive that without those letters, the transcript of the orthography of the period, which it was the Editor's object to put in print, would have been inaccurate and incomplete.

The other instance in which the Editor has to return his thanks to the Council of the Camden Society for deferring to his judgment, is in reference to the title that has been given to the treatise. That title is of course without authority from the original MS., and when the work was first proposed for publication to the Council, some Members were of opinion that it bore internal evidence of a date later than the life of Wicliffe. But the Editor not being able to concur in the reasons alleged* for this view, and being convinced that the work contained nothing that might not have proceeded from the pen of Wicliffe, was anxious that the question of the authorship of the treatise should not seem to be in any way decided by the title given to it in the present publication, and he therefore proposed that which now stands on the title-page, retaining the abbreviated title of "Wicliffe's Apology," on the upper margin of every page ; -a proposal to which the Council cheerfully acceded.

The Editor has to acknowledge having received much valuable assistance in the laborious work of collating the proof sheets with the original MS. from his friend the Rev. Richard Gibbings, of Trinity College, Dublin. The errata, for which the reader's indulgence is solicited, occur chiefly in those pages which had not the advantage of his revision.

Some apology is due to the Society for the long time that this volume has been passing through the press. The delay has been occasioned chiefly by the great difficulty of verifying the author's references, and by the occupation of the Editor's time by his official duties.

P.S. A learned friend, to whom the Editor shewed these sheets, has suggested that some readers may perhaps misunderstand what has been said, p. xvii. respecting the difficulty of deciding what are Wicliffe's writings and what are not. It may be well therefore to say that the Editor does not by any means intend to assert that we are not now able to determine whether any of the ancient tracts attributed to Wicliffe are really his. On the contrary, there can be no doubt that with respect to many of these treatises we have every reasonable proof, as well from the testimony of friends as of enemies, that they are the production of Wicliffe. But what has been said is, that we are to this day unable to give any satisfactory criteria of his genuine writings; we are unable to decide, for example, such questions as that which presents itself with respect to the author of the following treatise; and in the case of by far the greater portion of the tracts that have been attributed to Wicliffe, as well as of those which exist in our libraries on similar subjects, and which have escaped the notice of his biographers, we seem at present to have no means of ascertaining with any certainty their real parentage, beyond the evidence afforded by the authority of Bale, or the catalogues compiled by writers, who in many cases do not so much as profess to have seen, much less to have perused, the treatises they describe.

Until all these writings are collected and published, under the care of competent editors, the learned world will not be in a condition to discuss the genuineness of any tract attributed to Wicliffe, or to decide upon the real character of his doctrines.*

It is not ajen be feip, or prouable ajen je trowp, pat mani popis pat be word onli hau grauntid mani large indulgencis are dampnid; ban how may pei defend per indulgencis bifor God? Also, a duke, or an zerle, stonding ny a zerpli king, and pe king grauntid a fredam or priuilege, it is not inferrid of pis, pat pe duk, or $\xi \mathrm{erle}$, grauntip pis fredam or priuilege, but raper it longip to pe kyngis dignite ; pan, sin \}e king Crist is king of kings, heiar wip out comparisoun pan ani pope, pan pe king is souereyn to ani jerle or duke, it semib mikil more euident pat it longip to pe gretnes of God to graunt singlerly peis priuilegs or fredam ; for it folowip not, if a bedel, or criare, schewe pe fre graunt of his lord, pan pat pis seruaunt, pus schewand, grauntib swilke maner of fredam; mikil more if he pronounce wip out autorite or lif, contrariously, ajennis pe lordis wille. And in pis caas are comynli grauntars of pardoun. Also, a feipful curat owip to notify to his sugets, were is pardoun, sikirar, largar, and for les price, to be bout to his sogets. But je popes bulle techip, as it is seid, a pope to a maad and grauntid, at pe instaunce of a king, two poujand jer, als oft as a nobil man seip it bi twex be consecracioun and Agnus Dei. And pus prouabli a feibful man mizt in jering mani messis geit on a day pewenti powzand jer of pardoun. Swilk a wis marchandis for hel of soul, mizt a curat sey to his parischings. Also, putting to ouer for lewid men, bat can not pis orisoun, pat pei schal haue as mikil or more indulgencis for pe pr. nr. as oft as pei sey it, and as gret charite and mekenes deseruing indulgens. Also, ajen swilk feynid and on groundid indulgens, howip a feipful prest to multiply quek resouns, weil he hungrip and pristip rijtwisnes of pe law of God, for by suelk sophymis of anticrist, pe lawe of God is despicid, and rijtful is put in reyn hope, and vpon ilk side a liuar in pis world is falsly iapid. perfor, lif a man a iust lif, and tryst he of pe parting of merit pat God gifib men frely as him likij. And alle feynid arguments of anticrist are not worpi to be rehersid. God seid to Petir, Wat pu byndist vpon zerpe it schal be boundoun also in heuin. And pe pope is Petir's vicar, perfor it be howfip to trowe bat pis feip is verifized of him. Ilk feipful man graunt of pe gospel pe first. And suppose of be secound word, pof it be euident of dede him not be pe vicar of Petre, syn Petir was not hardi to aceept pis foule hardy presumpcoun, but suppose pat Petre or aungel of heuun accept to lowse or to bynd, he may not do pis, but in as mykil as it soundip to pe hed of be kirk abouyn. And as pis consonaunt is vnknowen to be japer, so pis fendly marchaundy is vneuident to pe feibful peple knowend pis ; pus seip pe doctor. Also a doctor in pe lawe, Barthelmew in Barth. casis, seib pat dais or zeris of indulgens are not daies ne 3 cris of heuen ne of purgatory, but jei are daies of pis world. Also pe Clemen. law seip, Pardoneris ow not to graunt indulgens of ber wil of dede, tins. ne dispens vp on wowis, ne asoil of swering, mansleyng, or of oper synnis pei pat schriuis to hem, ne forzeue pingis iuil tan awey and vncerteyn to wōme to restore for a quantite of money 3 yuen to hem, ne forzeue pe pridde or pe fourt part of penaunce enioinid, ne to draw sum tyme a soule fro purgatorie, as pei feynun falsly, ne graunt pleyn remissioun of synnis, ne asoile a pena et a culpa, for alle priuilegis up on peis or ani of hem are ajen callid in. pe Clementyns de pe. $\mathrm{c}^{\mathrm{o}}$. abus. h. Barth. in Casibus. If it be askid weper be pope selle indulgencs and merits of seynts, or jat men of pe kirke selle jer orisouns preyours or gostly suffragis; here I sey bus, It semip me spedy to aferm no bing folily. But it semip mekenes to seke how bying and sellyng synfully may falle in swelk pings, pat feibful folk eschew pe warliar ; and pan je dede semip and witnessip herd and vnderstonden and oper circumstauncs. Ilk man deme pe sikirliar ping pat semit to him. To selle is pe hauer to zeue his ping for price tane, and bi his resonable nature to reseyue ping for price zeuun, and pus bying and sellyng dubli grauntid and dubli zeuing. per to selle is seid as for to zeue to selling. Werfor wan I by meit for money, I selle pe money pat pe toper man biep, as I bye ping pat pe toper sellip. I bye je met; in pis pat I reseyue for price 3 euun. And I selle pe moncy in pis pat I giue it for price. And it semip pat bying and selling of man is many fold; je first heuinly; vpon pe rewlis of wis-dam ; pe secound is on be gespel, vpon be rewlis of prudence; pe prid is worldly, up on pe rewl of mannis lawe ; and pe fourt is fendly. Be pe first, gostly pings ai lastand are bout for temporal pings pat are falling and passing. Of secound is seid, pat Cristis disciplis went in to be cyte to by met. Of pe prid is comyn among men. Of pe fourt is seid pat Achab was sold to do iuil in sizt of pe Lord. peis wel vnderstondun, it semeb wel \}at popis, cardinalis, and oper prelats, prestis, and oper religiouse, may medfully and graciously selle indulgencis and merits of seynts and preyours and gostli suffrages, as jei may graunt be cristun men swilk pings or benfets and deds of mercy and oper goodis; and pus may oper bye. And mani may not tak part of grace ne of blis but if pei bye it vn sum maner, and it be sold hem ; it semip bi pis pat Crist boust us ajen, and for our good dedis behit is heuenly kyndom. pus blessid martirs for gloriouse martirdom deseruid to haue perpetual crounis. pus pe apostil did alle pings for pe gospel pat he schuld be maid perseyuer jer of. Als jus seye we, o maruelous marchandies, pe maker of man kynd takyng a soulid body of pe virgyn, demd to be borne, and forpgoing man wib out seed, may gif vs his godhed, swilk feip is ai mad in hope trust and charite. And jus if pe pope, or ani oper, ani tyme feipfully and charitably graunt and hist to ani man indulgens, or part of merit of seynts, part of preyours, abstinens, wakyng, obediens, or oper deds, iustly, and on Goddis plesaunce, and graciousli, for her good deds, ober pat pei be relesid of synnis, or of peynis, or pat bei be pe more sterid to pe feip, or to plese God, blessidli pei selle swilk pingis to hem. And azen worde swilke penkand to do pe deds of God iustli, and graciously pe dedis of mercy, pat he be maad perseyuar of swilk pings, bop pei bien and sellen blessidli. But if pe pope, led bi coueytise, or oper, as symonie, or wip \}e spirit of pride, as if pei wib here biginning disposid alle pings, and graunt swilk pingis to ilke man, 3 ha wip out merit, or wip out God ledar before, but as if folowid, and schuld proue, and schuld conferme wat pat him list to be don, as now is presumid of many; or led wip pe spirit of lust of flesche, graunt or behist ani swilk pingis, oper for mony or oper zerpli bodili temporal good and fleschly pingis, or preyour or fanour of meed, or fleschli pings, or for swilk luf, haterad, or drede of swilk men, or for vndeu seruise, or oper vndeu cause and vnpertinent, who schal pan dout but pat je pope and oper selle swilk pingis synfully, and for symonic, and jus alle jat persewen for swilke indulgens, or benfices, or oper graces, wip swilk froward inwit, who doutib bat \}ei ne bize sinfully, or veriliar enforce to bye ping bat schal not geyt? Also if je pope, and oper men of je kirke, wil not graunt indulgens or benfies to hem pat pei be grauntid to frely, but if money or sum oper bing be jeuen to hem, or if minstris of pe kirke wele not frely minster to hem ]at pei [schuld ?] frely minster to, not but if mony or oper bing be zeuen to hem, who dowtip jat ne swilk men sellen synfully swilk pings? pis semip be je sawis of feipful doctours, put in pe canon, so and pei \}at wenun to bye indulgens for per temporal goods, and wenun to be assoilid or for geuun be hem, pof pei abizd in per synnes, nor mak not satisfaccoun dewly of per symnis on oper syde, but also eft turnun ajen ber to ; byen synfully, and wenun to haue pat is takun a wey from hem. And also swilk are in defaut pat hopen not, ne turnen not to be forzeuun of per synnis; wan pei mend hem vp on Cristis bidding, 3 ha if pe prest wil not minster to hem, not but if money be gyuen to hem, and for pis pei selle pis iuil wille. Also how blam worpi are po minstris pat wan men and women are foundun in synne, anoon pei forbed hem pe sacraments of je kirke and comynng of cristun men, and enioyn hem gret penaunce, but if pat pei fynd better grace. But as sone as mony is jeuen pei reysen pe synnars to pe takyng of pe sacraments and comyning of pe folk, and joynun prestis to reseyue hem, and minster to hem, pof pei leue not per synne, but contenun it more orribli, and oft leue hem tul a tyme to contune per inne. A howe cursid marchaundise of men of pe kirke, to selle soulis in synne to pe deuil for per godis! And also per oune soule ; in part takyng of pe defaut, and for pe sacrilege pat pei do in reif of goodis. A howe gret schrewidnes, fraude, gile, and reif, and peruersite now regneb in be kirk, as is opun be be dedis! Certis now is fillid pat is seid in pe psalme, For I sawe wickidnes and contradiccoun in je cyte day and nyzt. Wickidnesse schal compasce here vp on her wall, and traueil in her middis, and vnritwisnes and vsere and gile an [are] not fallen from here stretis. In how many gret casis may it be, pat now regnib in je kirk synful marchondise ; bryng to witnes ; examyn be sawis; discusse be dedis; opun and comyn fame traueylip, pat in pe court of Rome mai no man geyt no grace, but if it be bowt, nor jer is noon grauntid, but if it be for temporal meed; for pis pat pe pope reseruip to himsilf, and to pe chaumbre, as graunting of sum benfics, and pe first fruts of sum oper, bat he gifip; and translatyng of bischops; and al pis is don, as it is seid, for coueyties, and pat is seruant of idols ; pei pat persuen for indulgencs, exempcouns, and priueylegs, sey how pei geyt nowt wip out bying; swilk are comynly grauntid to be riche and my3ty of pe world. Wat of graunting of indulgencs, an abbot of gret riches 3 af pre vndred marke, to geyt to his abbey, pries in be 3 eere, pe same indulgence pat pe kirk of Rome is wont to graunt to hem pat visitun a place bat is callid porciuncula. Nout only, but also [a] cardinal gaf at his dying al his good, to haue be same grauntid to a riche abbey were he was be fore monk, as men bat are hold trewe men witnessen. What more? A clene man was in pe court, and spak to hem pat had gret gouernaile in be court, and praid him to 3 if him ordres frely. Wel, he seip, I schal zeue be frely. And pou schalt zeue me foure floreynis, and I schal ordeyn pe a bischop aftir noon. And he ansuerid, Sopli, I haue but foure katereynis. Forsope, he seip, and pu schalt hau non ordres here.

And pus he went wip out ordres. And nowe how pe pricis are ekid, and how mykil him behowuip to zeue pat schal geit benfics, \}ei telle pat bring swilk new pingis fro pe cowurt.

Nowe ilk man discuse wedir swilk marchaundis be synful, and ai be war of pe perel, and see pat we sey no fals witnes a geyn ani man, but ioi we euer to gidir in trowb.

Of cursing twey poynts.
A noper is pis pat is put and askid, pat po minstris of pe kirke owe not to curse and to wari.
III. Of
cursing twey

Certs to bis I sey pei owe bope to curse and wari, but neuer for iuil wille ne veniaunce, but for luf of ritwisnes. And raper for pe breking of pe bidding of God, pan for worldli goodis or pride of be owe not to world and flescli lust.

An oper is pis pat is putte, pat pe kirke may not rijtwisly curse a riztwys man. To pis I seid pus, pat in two maner of ping, is seid iust; first sympli, or after trow\}, as pat vnrytwysnes is not inne. In be secound maner is a man seid iust, onli in name or aftir ${ }_{\text {man rizus }}$ present riztwisnes. And pus as doctors seyn, a sentence of cursyng is seid to be jeuun justli, on two maners. On after troup, wan it is don wit just cause, juste ordre, and iust entent. A noper, wan it is don onli up on comyn form o lawe. And pus it may be as it semip sum tyme, pat jow be kirke curse iustli, as to form, a iust man, neples it [is] not iust as to sopfastnes; as wan ber is no cause of pe fulnes of pe kirke cursing : vnrijtwisnes of pe cause is po syn going be for of pe obstinat, wan pe synnar wil not dewli obey ne amend rizt. pat is pat pu dost po dom in nam of pe kirke, feipfully wilyng be mendment of pe synnar, helful, to be worschip of our Lord Jћu Crist, and due ordre procedand up je gospel. But suppose her pat pis iust is pat is ordeynid be God to do a ping, or to suffre, to comyn, or to minister in ani maner, or zend in be nam of Crist, and he willing to perform obediently and fille pe wark pat

God hap zeuun to do, suppose he pat bis is iust. And pan I suppose pe kirke mai not iustli curse him, as he may not sequester him fro pis pat God joinib him to do, but if God wille pat he be sequestrid; nor pe kirk may not iustli priue pe comyning of cristun men, nor taking of pe sacraments, nor part taking of good jings, wyle he is iust, not but if God wil pat it be done; nor pe kirke may not iustli punisch nor bid punische swilk on, bifor pat God bid; nor non may denounce swilk on cursid, not but in je forme pat he is cursid; nor be kirke mai not iustli lede ani man in to synne, nor bid do synne, ne contune per inne, pe wilk he putt owt of comyn and harmip, as it semip bi pe speche of feipful men ; nor mai not iustli wari him, ne pray iuil to him, ne punisch him, for he will do wel and fille Godds bidding, and amend his mis. In ani swilk maner pei mai not curse ani swilk iust man.

But it semep me pat it spedep a litil to seeke pe witte and pe sawis of feipful men, owe [how ?] pei speke of cursyng, for per is mani maner of cursyng. pe first and je warst, and pat is dedely synne, bi pe wilk a man synning, puttip him self out of cominyng of feipful men, bat is to sey, vndisposip himsilf to tak part of pe merits of pe kirk, as it is of ilk man deed bi synne ; and pus owip no man to curse ani man, for God may not autorise bat actyfe cursyng ; nor Crist was not pus cursid, for he synnid neuer. But passyue cursyng, bat is peyn be it self wip synne folowand, is iust; wilke is proper God to zeue, and is iust medicyn pat po synnar owip for to take pankfuly, and be sory for pe cause perof: per is also a noper cursing, bat is preying of iuil or effectual warying or cursyng pat is iust, departing fro comyning of feipful men, and fro pe taking of pe sacraments. And a noper by wilk a man cursip a noper contrarily to pe lawe of Crist, and jat but only in nam or pretendid.
perfor to spek of je cursyng of \}e kirke, [by] pe wilk je kirk denouncip opunly a synnar to be put out of comynyng, and be forfendid him po comyn feleschip of feipfulmen, and taking of sacraments, pat he do pe raper penaunce, and infect not oper, and pat pis be ritful bop up pe side pat is cursid and up on pe kirk side cursing, be howfip je kirk to temt warly. For as pre condicouns mak martirdom faire, pat is to sai, riztwisnes of pe cause, charitable pacience of pe martir, an vnriztwisnes of pe persewar, and so pat cursing be riztwyse longen in a contrari maner; pat is to say, riztwisnes in the kirk cursing, cause of vnriztwisnes in pe man cursid, and enemy of pe obstinat. And pus it may be, pof pe kirk curse a iust man iustly, as to form of vsing of lawe; naples it is not iustly as to pe cause of sopfastnes, nor it may not, wyle per is no cause of vnriztwisnes in pe man, ne obstynacy, ne ritwisnes in pe kirk, pus doing; pat is, wile God biddip not pe kirk curse, pus je vnriztwisnes of pe cause is synne going biforne, for wilk pe man schuld be cursid. Enemy of pe obstinat, wan pe synnar wil not dewli obey ne a mend. Riztwisnes of je kirk doing execucoun is wan pe kirk a cordip wip Crist, and pe kirk aboue; of mek charitable feipful entent, benkyng helful correccoun of pe synnar to \}e honor of God, procedib in dewe ordre up be gospel.

But, for to haue pe more clere and vndeceyuid knowyng of jis mater, cursing and assoling in mater of domis, and geuing of sentence in ani maner of dome, priuey or comyn, and in mater witnessing, and in materis to be don, polid, susteynid, aprouid, confermid, canonizid, autenkid, or to be helpid, in ani maner of cause a geyn ani man, or for ani ping, me semip now spedy to sey summe pings.

First, I tak as feip, pat no creature mai do iustli, wele, meritorili, perfitly, vnsinfully, effectuali, ne perseuerantli ani ping, not but if God wirk pat ping bi him, and in him ; pat if he do, or presume to do pis \}at God wirkip not bi him, he synnep, and his wark schal be in veyn, and idil, and schal not stond in profit. pis semip pus, Crist mizt not, pan mikil more non oper creater mai pat Crist

Jo. u0. mizt not, semip pus; for he seip in the gospel, pe Sone mai not of himsilf ani ping, nor noust, but as he seb pe Fadir doing; pat if he schuld do ani bing pat God schuld not bi him, schuld do vniustly. For pus he seip: If I bere witnes of misilf, mi wittnes is not trewe, it is Fadir bat berib wittnes of me; and as je Fadir berip witnes of him, and biddip him bere witnes and speke, so he berip witnes and spekip. War for he seip; je words pat I speke, I speke not of misilf, but pe Fadir dwelling in me he dop pe dedis, and as he gaf me bidding so I spek. And so is ilk man holdun to spek, and do, and witnes, as je Fadir giffip bidding to hem. And jat no creater mai do iustli ani \}ing, not but if Crist do it bi him, semip pus. Ilk power in heuen and in zerpe is 3 euen to Crist. Also pe Fadir hap zeuen al dome to pe Sone, and al wysdam is of pe Lord God. \}erfor wi\} out Crist is no iust power, dome, ne Apoc. iij. wisdam; he hap pe key of Dauid; he closip, and pan no man opunnip; he opunnip and pan no man closip. If he dyng down, pan no man biggip vppe. If he close, pan is per no man pat may opun, ne iustli azenstond him, nor no man mai sey pis schal be don, but if he bidde. And he giffip power, and wisdam, and seip : Joh. xu0. Wij outen me zee mai no ping do. And for pis seip Poule: We 2 cor. iijo. may not of our self penk ani jing as of ourself, but our sufficiens 2 Cor.xijo. is in God ; and no werkis in vs and no ping mai we ajen pe trowb, but for je trowp. And for bis seip be prophet: Lord, pu hast
Is. xxujo. wrout al our warkis in vs. And mani swilk witnes. And so, sin no creater mai do iustli ani ping wip outun Crist, pan be kirk may not, noper general kirk, ne particuler; \}e kirk in heuen, ne pe kirk sleping in purgatory, ne pe kirk fizting in \}is world, aggregat, or gedred to gidre in on of Crist, and of al chosun to be blessid wip him wib outen ende, lepun vp to gidir in to oo spirit and concorporel and conperseyuers and felows of pe heizest of Crist, and of his godly kynd. As Petre seib in his epistil, and Poul of Colocenses: Weper it be pe kirk particuler, as were two or pre are gedrid to gidir in Cristis name, and of je kirk; or if it be a persone ordeynid to do ani pink in je name of Crist and of pe kirk, he mai no ping do iustli, but in maner befor seyde, pat Crist do it bi him.

And pus is opun pat pe kirk mai not iustli curse ne bles, but as he hap befor ordeyned to be doun, and do it be pe kirk; pe kirk mai not ellis curse iustli, pat is noper sequester ani man fro comyning of feibful men, ne fro part takyng of sacraments, ne for bid him ne to do ani bing, ne joyn him penaunce, ne denounce, put out of comyn, ne bid iuil to him, ne curse him in ani maner, be wat nam pat cursing be callid; je kirk may not do it iustli, ne vnblamfully, not but in als mikil as Crist hap ordeynid to be doun, and doip it bi pe kirk, and confermit it. And rizt so of soiling; oper wis may not je kirk bring a man out of symne, ne forgef pe peyn, nor man siker, ne pronounce, ne hist him to be soylid, in ani maner for ani cause. Ne oper wyse howib ani man to dred ani curse, not but in als mikil as it is zeuen rp Cristis bidding, ne oper wise ioi of assoiling; ne reste hemsilf siker per for. Oper wyse ow je not to drede it ; pat is, je ow not to drede it pat it schal greue jow, or noy jow, as at God to mak jow sinful, or to be punischicl, nor je ow not cesse, ne abstene fro ani good wark, but vp pat Crist for bedip it him. pis sentence is clere of manifold witnes of je feipful opunning of holi writt, and publischid expresly and ymplizebly, and of be sawis of feipful doctours, witnessing and expounding; and of pe decreis of pe kirk conferming. In canoun it is writun pus, of pe words of pe pope Leoun; De prinylege of Leoun. Petre dwellip were euer be dome is $j$ euen aftir his equite, bat be fersnes be noper to mikil ne to litil, were no ping schal be hounde ne lowsid, not or Petre byndip or lowsip. Who euer deserue to tak pe sentence of daming, if he wele perseyuer in his wit, no man mai relesse him. And also Jerom scip, If ani man be put out Jerom. noujt be rizt dome of hem pat are abouen to pe kirk, if he went CAMD. SOC. 14.
not out be forne, pat is, dide not so pat he deseruid to be put out, he is no ping hurt in pis pat he semip to be put out fro men be dom not rizt. And pus it is don pat sum tyme his [he ?] is wip inne pat is cast out, and he is wip out pat semip wib inne. pus seip he.

Rabanus. And Gelasi je pope seip, He pat sentence is zeuen azen do he awey pe error and it is voyd, and if it be vniust, so mikil he owib to charge it be lesse as at God and at his kirk. Wickid sentence mai greue no man, and so disire 3 e not to be assoilid per of be wilk 3 e holdun 3 ou not boundon. pus seib he. And Austyn seip, Vp on be general feib, no man mai noi be kynd of God, ne be kynd of God mai not noi ani man vniustly, ne pole ani be noized vniustly ; he pat noip, as pe Apostel seip, schal reseyue pis bat he noip. To pis acordip Rabanus and oper doctours mani ; of wilk zet it is spedi to rehers summe. ber is a cursing bat is dedli synne pe wilk pe man synning puttip himsilf out of comoun; pat is, vndisposip himsilf to tak part of merits of pe kirk, os it is of ilk ded be synne, and be swilk cursing is man waried to God. And pus no man ow to curse ani man, sin God mai not autorise pis cursing actif, for pus was neuer Crist cursid, for he synnid not. But cursing of peyn be it self folowand is iust, be wilk longip to God to $z$ ef. per is anoper cursing, bi wilk pe kirk denouncip opunly a synnar put out of comyn, and forbedip him comyn feleschip of cristun men, and pe takyng of sacraments, pat he mend pe raper, and smot not oper. And of pis curse pe kirke spekip most famously. And pis is callid je cursyng of pe kirk. To whas riztful ratifiyng, als wel on his syd pat is cursid, os on pe side of pe kirk cursing, pe kirk be houuib to tent to pre condicouns pat are requirid to pis lawful cursing ; pat is, vnriztwisnes in the cause, enuy of azen stonder, and riztwisnes of pe kirke doing execucoun. be first semip pat no man is pus cursid but materaly for synne. Ilk synne is vnriztwysnes or brynging it in, perfor to pis lawful curse is requirid pe vnriztwisnes of be cause; ne it is azen pis, but acording pat man be cursid, for pe honor of God, and profit of himsilf, and of pe peple, wib mani final leful leke causis os it semip of pe peyn of dampnid men. pe secounde circumstaunce semip of pis, pat to lawful cursing is requirid prefald broper correcting, and but he dwel obstinat to \}e fourt peyn pat is dede of pe kirk; for it is a prescripcoun fro comyning of feipful men; ellis pis cursing is not lawful. pe prid circumstaunce semip of pis, pat is it [it is ?] not possible to be put of comyn of men, but pat if it be perfor bow a persoun prescit curse bi autorite of pe [kirk], neuer pe lesse he presupponip pe kirk. And pus it semip al onli in effect an heretik schuld vnderly pe curse of je kirk; but it semip bat ilk synning to pe dep is an heretik; as ajen ward a heretik is he pat synnip to pe dep, for ilk swilk pertinatly contrarily techip to holi writte. And swilk curse, syn it is iust medicyn of pe gilty, schuld be tane pankfully, for he is not perid berby, but betteryd, or ellis his malice swagid. But he schuld do a wey per of, and take pe medicyn, schakyng a wey synne from him be absolucoun of sacrament, and mekly taking a noper absolucoun of iurisdiccoun of him pat cursid, by was vertewe he my3t comyn wip cristun men and tak sacraments. And pow pat medicyn be good for pe tyme, neuerpeles pe hele folowand is fare better. And bi resoun of pat prohibicoun fro comyng of feipful men and reseyuing of sacraments, syn it is not a sacrament supposid pat is it leful to a lewyd man in pe vertew of pe kirk to curse and louse; but wan ani after pe pridde correpcoun dwellip inobedient, he owip not only to be denouncid a cursid, pat of sume is callid pe lesse curse ; but comyn of feibful men and takyng of sacraments owun to be defendid him ; pat is callid pe more curse pan pe kirke hap ordeyned resounably; pat pe kirk performe it solemply, candel slekennid, bell rogun, and je cros turnid vp so doun. neuerpeles it intendip pe good of him pat is cursid charitabli, and profizt of pe kirk. And it semip be a noper doctor to bring forp a noper curse, be wilk it is leful to curse pe iust man, wij outun his demerit, of forbeding him comyn of men, and taking of sacraments, bat he geit mede of his obedience, and pe simnar be mad redy, or for summe oper swilk cause. But certeyn I am pat pis curse may not be done wip outun resounable cause ; ne je nakyd wille of pe prelat is not inowe perto ; ne a man is not holdun for swilk curse to leef ping pat he is holdun to do bi Godds bidding. Neuerbeles he mai medulfully cesser fro summe dedis for a tyme, and deserue for obediens. And if ani can ground pis maner of cursyng I consent.

But how bat we spek of curse oiper it pat is dedly, or peyn consequent jer of, or ellis warying, or it pat is sequestracoun of pe iust man fro comyn, or it be wilke pe iust man be cursid as contrari to Godds lawe, pat is but only in name or pretendand, or ani oper, it semip jat noun owib to curse ani principali for money, for his proper cause or wrong don til him.

VIII. To curse a man that is not cursid.

Psal.

A noper poynt putt is jis: he pat cursip ani man, or denouncip him cursid, wan he is not cursid, he brekip Goddis binding, herip fals witnes ajen his nejbore. Dis schewip it self sop, and oper resouns prouun it wele. And for sop, as he liz\} pat seip azen mend, as wan he wot how a ping is if he denay and afferm in pe contrari; or ells he pat presumib and wenip to wete verily of a jing, and properli denaip \}at, and affermib pe contrari, wening him to lize in pis, so lizp he pat chargid to afferm of a ping os it is aftur witing, and he affermip ajen je sope, and a ping os it is, for in pis he seip ajen God, and so ajen his mynde; for be troup of his mynd affermip not to him pe ping to be but os it is ; for je toper is fals presumpcoun. And jus wan he affermib him to wite jing pat he wot not, he affermi\} azen his mynd, and namly wan be ping is nowt, for he mai not wet but jing pat is, for if he wene to wit ping pat is not, pat is but fals presumcoun; and for pis seip Crist in sentence, if I denoy pis \}at is, I schuld be lik jow a lier. On jis schuld here witnes hang pat pei witnes not ajens God, nor be not disseyuid hemsilf, nor disseyue non oper men.
pis is a noper: it is a taking of dampnacoun pat a man lede his lif in pouert. Certs pis is contrari to pis, bat noon is Cristis disciple but if he forsak al fing for him. Alas he pat puttib forp pis ping noijer dredip ne schamip to lette, ne sclaunder oper men. Alas pat oijer throwib his lesings azen pe bidding of God, wer to bring \}ei forb suche \}ings, sip Crist ledde his bodili lyfe in most heyest pouert, as diuers doctors declaren. And he was riche, he was mad nedy for vs, pore and helples, as pe psalm seip on him, pat we bi his pouert schuld be mad riche. Pore he was, for he had not were to hied his heuid, and he chase je pore in fis world, jat are riche in pe feip, as Jame seip. And \}e pore he blessid, as je gospel seip, and his apostlis led pe porest lif; and fus he reprouid pe rych, and seid many iuel to cum to hem, and neuerles to sum pouert is not only a ping of saluacoun, but also of dampnacoun. perfor hem see pore men pat pei grucche not ajen God, but be glad of per pornes ; for \}us seip pe psalm, Lord, good is to me for pu l'sal. hast lowid me, pat I lere pi riztwisnes. And ilk man see pat he exviiio. bring not him self synfully in to pouert, nor bide not synfully per in. And se hem religious, pat pei feyn not falsly pouert, nor mak jei not heyet voyd, pat pei purchas hem not peyn but meed. And see pei pat pei oblesche no man to jer maner of ponert, but pat God hap callid per to. And alle prelats and prestis vse pei hemsilf in wat pouert pei schuld folow Crist; for pei schuld folow Crist as holi doctors declaren, bop Jerom, Ambrose, and oper. And for pe clerar declaring of pis mater we schal vnderstond pat pouert is a forme, a bing pat is seid pore, or litil, or haldun litil in sum maner. And pus sum are gostly pore, and sum bodily ; sum vertuously, and sum vicously, or synfully; and sum peynfully; and ilk on of hem in syndry degrees and maners. Gostly pouert is sum tyme wan a bing hap litil of sum spirit; and pus was Crist most pore, for he had lest of pe spirit of prid, or oper sinful spirits, 3he lesse pan euer had ani oper man; for al had sum synne but he; and lest he coucited of pis world, bop of hienes of lif, coueitise of flesche, lest of lordschep, lest of honour worldly, or worldly serueyse. And litil he tuk or coueytid of pis worlds goodis, or worldly seruice, for he tuk of hem but in comyn, as jei weren holden to do seruice to him, in je performing of je wark pat God jaue him to do. But and wan men wold haue reeft him to hane maid him kyng, he fled it; and ouer pis he porid him self ouer alle oper ; more alle oper mist for taking hede to his kynd and degre pat he is of, and to traueyl pat he toke, and pe seruice pat he dede, and to pe sorow pat he polid. Was per neuer creature so pore, ne pat porid him so mich; for ouer hem alle he chesid to be maid pe camd. soc. 14.
lowist, as it semip to him pat beholdip. And as be titil of pis world, and of worlds lawe, he was moost pore, for he cleymyd no ping be pat titil, nor no ping to be proper to him, ne wold he not be iuge in per pings, nor wan men wold not zeue him, he sowt no veniaunce vp on hem, but went his wey to oper place. And pis techip his pouert. And his pouert was bi pis mikil pe more, as he is pe richist ping pat mai be, and grattist Lord ; for his is God, pat is al riches ; and in him he is riche gostly in mercy, riztwisnes, and pees, power, science, and al gostly pingis. And rich is seid, as he pat chefly hap a ping; and Crist is rich, for he hap chefly and richli alle pingis, and gouernip, and ledip ouer alle oper creaturis. And bi pis we mai see, how alle pings are his most properly; and to holdyn of him, and bi his lawe, and his seruice to be don to him per for. And bi pe state of innocence he is verray Lord, for man was maid to lord in alle creaturis, and forfetid not bat wyche synnip not; and Crist kepid ai pat state, so he had titil to be Lord; and bi pus mikil ouer Adam, as God is aboue man. And pus is opun, how Crist is at onis bop richist and porist. And for pis seip doctors, pat to defend pe contrary pertinatly is heresy, contrary to pe feip. And pus he taujt his disciplis, to flee synful pouert, and to folow him in medful pouert; forbad hem to flee prid, and al fals coueyteis, and veyn glory, and to be mek and suget, and scruiciable, obedient and buxum to ilk man, and to hold hem paied of fode and helyng, and bisily to labor jer fore; and pole deseyce of body in wantyng, and taking a wey, wip out ani euynes, or sekeng to do veniaunce asen; and who pat wold be pe more, to be minister and seruaunt to alle, and nowt glad to mikil of ber power, or witte, or oper fings, but glad in pis, if God haue chosun hem to grace, and jeue \}e jank til lim for alle pingis. pus he tawt hem to do, and fle prid, and oper symnes, pat maken man pore synfully; to ocupie oper mennis pingis synfully, and pus to be rich, and falsly holde ryches. And so many wyse to renne in to pe wrat of God. And pus doctors declaren je apostols so louid Crist in heyest pouert ; and Jerom and oper seynts kemmu how jat prestis now schuld folow Crist in pouert. Dus selp Jerom, Jerom. It be howuip vs clerks to not mishews pe sygnes of our cleregye, for alle je tokenis of clerks, crien and presenten rertewes to be in hem; pe croun criep pouerte; pe cloping honeste of soule; pe state purte ; pe honoring, chastite ; \}e professioun, religicun; pe office, deuocoun ; pe stody, contemplacoun. And jerfor but if we schyn in peis vertues, pe croun lie\}, pe cloping, pe honoring, pe professioun, pe office, pe stody, pe contemplacoun. And per for be peis we are but peyntid clerks and lied clerkis. And if God schal tyne alle joo pat spek lesyng, and jat are lesing, and not only hare clerks dampnid, for pei spek lesing, but also for pei luf it moost, and putten hemsilf for it to je dep. And eft, pe clerk pat seruib to Crists kirke, first schuld interpret je calling of his nam, and enforce to be pat he is seid; for a clerk in our speche is seid sort, and ber for are men seid clerkis, for pei are of pe Lordis sort, or for pe Lord is jer part; and for he is pe Lordis part, or hab pe Lord his part, he haut to haue him silk pat he haue pe Lord, and be had of pe Lord. He pat liap pe Lord, and is had of pe Lord, and seip wip pe prophet, Mi part je Lord, may no jing haue wip Psal. $x z^{\circ}$. out pe Lord; \}at if he haue ani ping bi syd pe Lord, pe Lord schal not be his part; as if he haue gold, or siluer, or diuerse instruments, or possessouns, wib per parts, be Lord denaiep not to be his part. If I am pe part of pe Lord, seip Jero, and a litil cord of his heritage, I take not part wip oper linagis, but, as a decoun and prest, I life on tipis, seruing pe auter, I am susteynd of offryng of pe auter; and fode and heling hauing, wip hem I schal be content, I Tim. rio. and nakyd I schal folowe pe nakid cros. And Bernard seip, It is Bernard. iust pat he pat seruip be auter lif per of, noiper to do lechery ne prid, nor be richid, noiper in clerked of pore to be maid riche, ne gloriouse of pe vnnoble, big not to him of pe goodis of pe kirk large palayce, nor gedre not baggis to gidre, nor wast not pe goodis in vanite, nor in superfluite, bere him not hize of pe facultees of pe kirk, nor gif not to wenddingis his coseynis nor his childre. It is grauntid to pe if pu serue wel pe auter to lif per of, not to do lechery, nor to be gilt bridils, peyntid sadels, ne siluern sporis, nor perpulid aray, ffor sop wat pu holdist to je of pe auter ouer necesary liffod and simple aray, it is not pin, it is peft and sacrilege. pis, seip he.

An oper poynt putt is pis: Fastingis are not necesary, wil man abstenib him fro oper synne. And as to pis I sey pus, pat fasting generaly is not onli in forbering of meit and drink, but in forbering of iuel, and al iuel spite, and in doing of good dedis. pis semib jus bi \}e scripture ; for fus seib be prophet, Halow zor fasting. Wat is it, seip Gregory, to halow fasting, but to schew due or worpi abstinens of flesch, wip oper good verteuis ioined per to ; do a wey prid, wrap, strif, and oper vices; for in veyn ju foilist pi flesch wip abstinens, if pi soule be not refreynid fro synnis. And as sum fastingis are but of ordinaunce of be lawe, so bi be lawe are mani excusid per of; as wymmen wip childe, and waxit folk, wold, and zong, sek, and feble. And pe pore are excusid bi pe lawe. XXVIII. Of vowe.

An oper is put and is askid pus; pat pe vowe of religioun is azen Cristis gospel. To pis I haue seid jus, pat pe name of religioun is takun in mani maneris; os sum tyme for pe trowp pat rewlip a man to serue duly his makar. And sum tym for je act and pe state procedyng of pis religioun. And pe prid, materialy, for je personis jus enclinid. And jus \}e keping of Cristis lawe is callid religioun, bi holy writ, and holy doctors. In be secound maner are religious callid poo pat departun from oper puple bi sectis foundun, and bi tradicouns, and oper sensible ritis. And in pis maner wer per pre sectis among pe Jury, Phariseis, and Esseis, and Saduceis. Eft it be howuip to not, pat to a wowe is a resonable creature to obey him to his souereyn, to kep sum hard ping pat is sensible, or vnsible, a bout ping ay lasting or temporel, wise or vnwyse ; wise, wan it is acording to God, efter his lawe to je worschip of God, and profijt of je vowar; vnwise, wan it is only about temporal pingis, or vnhonest, or vnprofitable to soule hele; werfor it be howuip pe vowar be in fredam, hauing feruor to do plesing Goddis pingis, pat are to soule hele; and pat he entend to fulfil, ellis he synnip in vowing, and so his vow is synne; as if it be more for lust of flesch, pride of world, or to geit temporel riches, or in to harm of ani man, or swilk oper, pan for honor and worschip of God. Derfor it is seid jus, four pingis are requirid to ilk vowe pat oblischip : first, principaly, pat it be maad to God, sin it is je worschipful dede only to be zeuen to God. De secound, pat is bi pingis only good and profitable to hele of soule, and not iuel ping, nor of filp, nor vnleful, ne noyes to ani man, ne letting of ani maundment of God, or counseil of Crist, efter be decre of Isidor, Isidor. seing pus: In iuel hiztis, kut pe filling a wey of ping pat is hizt. In fowl vowe, chaunge pi decret, and do not pis pat pu hast vowid unwarly. pe prid, pat it be made wib deliberacoun, pat pe purpos or entent be not misrewlid, for if it be foly, or vniust, or vndiscret, or letting ping more profitable, it is not to be kepid, but vtterly to be brokin, after pis pat Ecclesiastes seip, An vnprofitable and a Eccles. $u^{\circ}$. foul hizt displecip God. And as he is seid vnfeipful pat dop not pis pat he hizt, so is he pat dop not of pe feip, pat is of pe ground of God, or not of good in witt or ordre, for ilk ping pat is not of Rom. wiu?. pe feip is symne. And in a oper place it is seid, po vowis of foolis are to be broken. ## N O T E S.

P. 1, 1. 2.-I witness bifor God Almigty, and alle trewe cristunmen and wommen, and zowe. From this passage it may be inferred that this work was delivered as an address before some assembly.
—l. 3.—That I haue not ben. Perhaps we should read "That it hath not ben." The sense would seem to require some such alteration.
—l. 4.-The general feith. That is, "The Catholic faith." - l. 17.-I knowlech to a felid and seid thus. That is, " $[$ acknowledge to have felt and said thus :" $a$ for have. Our author uses the word feel again, line 20:"And this sterith [i. e. stirreth, moveth] me to fele thus." So also in the confession of John Aston (Lewis's Life of Wiclif, Oxf. 1820, p. 262), "Y, John Aston, Prist, unworthely required of my Lord the Erchbyschop of Canturbery . . . . . . . to say what I felyde in the matyr of the Sacrament of the Autere." And in the confession of Nicholas de Hereford (A.D. 1382, ibid. p. 256), "Wytes alle cristen men that we Nichol of Herforde and my fellow Pristus . . . . . . . whan we were required to seyne what we felyde of diverse conclusions," &c. The word seems used for the Latin sentio.
> P.2, 1.2.-As the glose seith.-See Biblia cum Glossa ordinaria, et Nic. Lyrani Postilla, &c. Venet. 1588, fol. The Gloss on Rom. viii. 9 is as follows: "Si quis autem Spiritum Christi non habet, (vivens secundum sensum carnis vel gesta. Dum mente consentit carni, vel ejus opera actu explet), hic non est ejus (i. membrum Christi)."
P. 2, 1. 4.-Thus seith seint Jerom. The passage here quoted occurs in St. Jerome's fourteenth Epistle Ad Heliodorum, according to the order of the edition of Vallarsius. But our author, like most of the Divines of his time, quotes the Fathers, not from their own writings, but from the extracts given in the Decretum of Gratian. See Decret. Caus. 2, q. 7, c. 29. Non omnes, where the words cited by our author are thus given:-"Non omnes episcopi sunt episcopi: Attendis Petrum : sed et Judam considera. Stephanum suscipis: sed et Nicolaum respice. Et infr. Non facit ecclesiastica dignitas Christianum. Cornelius centurio adhuc ethnicus dono Sancti Spiritus mundatur ; Presbyteros Daniel puer judicat. Et infr. Non est facile stare loco Pauli, tenere gradum Petri, jam cum Christo regnantium. Et infr. Infatuatum sal ad nihilum prodest, nisi ut projiciatur foras, et a porcis conculcetur."

The reference to Daniel is in the Latin Vulgate to Dan. xiii, or in our English Bibles to the story of Bel and the Dragon.
—_ 1. 11.-Also Austeyn seith. This is from Ang. Tract. vi. in cap. i. Joannis. It is quoted, however, from the Decretum, Caus. 2, \%. 7, c. 30. "Non omnis qui dicit, Pax vobiscum, quasi columba est audiendus. Et infra."- The words that follow are given in the Decretum (ib. c. 32) as St. Augustine's, but they do not occur in his works, as the Corr. Rom. acknowledges; they are as follow: "Qui nec regiminis in se rationem habuit, nec sua delicta detersit, nec filiorum crimen correxit, canis impudicus dicendus est magis quam Episcopus."
_l. 14.-The crime of his symnes. The Latin shews that we should read, " the crime of his sonnes."
_- l. 15.-Not alle prestis. This seems taken from the rubric of Caus. 2, q. 7, c. 33, which inmediately follows the foregoing quotation :-" Majores et minores non dignitate sed vita intelligi oportet." Or from the rubric of $c$. 29, " Dignitas non facit Episcopum, sed vita."
-_ 1. 16.-And Gregor seith. Decret. Caus. 2, q. 7, c. 28. "Paulus dicit, Seniorem ne increpaveris. Sed hæc ejus regula in eo servanda est cum culpa senioris exemplo suo non trahit ad interitum corda juniorum. Ubi autem senior juvenibus exemplum ad interitum præbet, ibi districta increpatione feriendus est. Nam seriptum est : Laqueus juvenum omnes vos: et rursus propheta dieit, Maledictus puer centum annorum." The passages of Scripture referred to are 1 Tim. v. 1. Isa. xlii. 22. and Isa. Ixv. 20.
P. 2, l. 22.-And this is put after in decreis. This is part of Gratian's note on Caus. 2, q. 7, c. 32. Qui nec: "Quibus ergo Hieronymus, Augustinus, Gregorius auferunt nomen Columbe, Episcopi, Senioris ; nomne et privilegium est auferendum dignitatis, ut possint a subditis reprehendi ?"
—— 1. 26.-Also Austeyn seith. Decret. Caus. 8, q. 1, c. 11, quoted from August. de Civit. Dei, c. 19. "Qui episcopatum desiderat, bonum opus desiderat. Exponere voluit, quid sit episeopatus : quia nomen est operis, non honoris. Gracum est enim, atque inde ductum vocabulum, quad ille, qui præfieitur, eis, quibus præficitur, superintendit, curam eorum scilicet gerens : émi quippe super : $\sigma \kappa о \pi \grave{o}$ vero intentio est. Ergo Episcopos, si velimus, Latine superintendentes possumus dicere : ut intelligat non se esse episcopum, qui præesse dilexerit, non prodesse."

Our author appears to have read in this passage, "atque inde dictum vocabulum," instead of ductum, for he renders, " and ther is said a word." It is worth noting also that he has translated ille qui preficitur, " he that is maad a prest;" and eis quibus preficitur, " the thingis that he is maad prest to ;" qui prceesse dilexerit, " he that fufith to be a prest;" and non prodesse, " not further to."

- l.6.-As Gregor seith. The editor has not been able to find these exact words in St. Gregory, or eited in the canon law : but perhaps our author quotes them loosely from the Decretum, Caus. 8, q. i. c. 9. "Pastori sanctee ecclesiæ dicitur: Simon Joannis amas me? Pasce oves meas. Ex quibus verbis colligitur, quia si is, qui valet, omnipotentis Dei ores renuit pascere, ostendit se pastorem summum minime amare." See B. Greg. Epist. iv. lib. vii. indict. 15. (Edit. Benedict. tom. ii. col. 848.)
P. 3, l. 7.-Howith. Oweth, oughteth.
- l. 10.-Also thus seith Crisostom. The editor has not been able to find the passage here referred to, either in the canon law, or in the works of St. Chrysostom.
- l. 16.-And thus seith an other. This is another reference which the editor has not succeeded in verifying, although he has spent more time in the search than it was worth.
-1. 19.-Now deme this fijting kirk. Deme, i. e. "consider this fighting church," alluding probably to the schism of the Popes; an allusion which may serve to fix the date of this tract.
- 1.27.-And Crisostom seith. Quoted from the Opus imperfectum in Matthroum, falsely attributed to St. Chrysostom : Decret. Dist. xl. c. 12. Multi. The words cited are as follow: "Quicunque desideraverit primatum in terra, inveniet confusionem in coelo; nec inter servos Christi computabitur, qui de primatu tractaverit; nec unusquisque eorum festinet, quomodo aliis major appareat, sed quomodo omnibus inferior videatur : quoniam non qui major fuerit in honore, ille est justior, sed qui fuerit justior, ille major."
P. 4, 1.9.-In the propos. i. e. " in the proposition;" the subject, namely, or question under discussion.
- l. 11.-And he higt it. i. e. " and he promise it."
- l. 15.-Therfore the pope ioi not. i. e. "let not the pope joy or rejoice." So also, line 17. But al dred more, i. e. "Let all dread more."
-1. 18.-For thi that in swelk, &c. Forthi, because. This sentence in modern English is, "Because that in such the sin is aggravated by reason of the degree," i. e. by reason of the dignity or rankof the sinner.
_- l. 19.-Ioi thu not. From Ecclus. xvi. i. "Ne jucunderis in filiis impiis, si multiplicentur : nec oblecteris super ipsos si non est timor Dei in illis :" and verses 3, 4, "Melior est enim unns timens Deum, quam mille filii impii. Et utile est mori sine filiis, quam relinquere filios impios." Unpitouse is our author's version of impius; so also we often find him using the word pite for piety.

P. 4, l. 21.-Thowzand. This word should lave been printed with z, not with the Saxon $;$ : thowzand, not thowjand.
—— l. 29.-And eft Jerom seith. Decret. Dist. x1. c. 2, quoted from St. Jerome's Epist. ud Heliodorum. "Non est facile stare loco Pauli, et tenere gradum Petri, jam cum Christo regnantium : quia hinc dicitur, non Sanctorum filii sunt qui tenent loca sanctorum, sed qui exercent opera eorum." The Roman correction notes that the latter part of this extract, from quia hinc to the end, is not found in St. Jerome's works : the first part is quoted again in Caus. ii. qu. 7, $c$. 29, Non omnes.
_l. ult.-And Gregor seith. Decret. Dist. xl. c. 3. "Nos, qui presumus, non ex locorum, vel generis dignitate, sed morum nobilitate innotescere debemus, nee urbium claritate, sed fidei puritate." Our author's version of the words "Nos qui præsumus," we that are priests, is remarkable : and this is not the only place in which he has rendered praesse in the same way (see note on p .2 , line 26); which shews that the notion of a sacrificer was not in our author's time the primary idea attached to the word priest.
P. 5, l. 2.-Places ne orderis. Dist. xl. c. 4. "Non loca vel ordines Creatori nostro nos proximos faciunt : sed ei nos merita bona jungunt, aut mala disjungunt."

- l. 3.-Nekist, nearest, proximos.
- l. 4.-Departen. Disjungunt ; the old English verb active and transitive, to depart, (i. e. to separate, to disjoin, put asunder,) was used in the Office of Matrimony, in our Prayer Books, until the last revision of the Liturgy, when the original words "till death us depart," were altered into "till death us do part." The word depart in its ancient transitive signification does not occur in the authorized version of the Bible.
- 1. 5.-And Crisostom seith. Dist. xl. c. 5, quoted from the spurious Opus imperfectum in Mattheum. "Homo Christianus fortiter cadit in peccato propter duas causas : aut propter magnitudinem peccati, aut propter altitudinem dignitatis."
P. 5, l. 7.-Also of the dedis of Boneface. Quoted "Ex dictis" [al. gestis] "Bonifacii martyris." Dist. xl. c. 6. "Si Papa, suæ et fraternæ salutis negligens, deprehenditur inutilis et remissus in operibus suis, et insuper a bono taciturnus, quod magis officit sibi, et omnibus, nihilominus innumerabiles populos catervatim secum ducit primo mancipio gehennæ, cum ipso plagis multis in æternum vapulaturus." Al. "vapulaturos," which was evidently our author's reading.
-l. 12.-Crist $[o n]$ the jerd. The editor is not sure that he is right in supposing the word " 3 erd" to mean " earth," and the preposition " on " to have been omitted by the transcriber. It has occurred to him, since the sheet to which this note refers was printed off, that " 3 erd," may mean herd, "shepherd;" and that the passage does not require any emendation. In other places 3 erthe or 3 erth is the spelling adopted for the word " earth."
—_ l. 19.-A gaf. For "he gave ;" a for he is common in Shakespere, in the mouths of peasants or illiterate persons. Thus in Love's Labour Lost, Act I. Scene II. "Dull" says, " - but a must fast three days a-week."
And again, Act IV. Scene I. "Costard" says,
" Indeed a must shoot nearer, or he 'll ne'er hit the clout."
And a little afterwards,
"To see him kiss his hand! and how most sweetly a will swear."
- l.22.-In tholing, i. e. "in suffering."
—— l. 23.-As is opun in his pistil, alluding to 1 Pet. v. 2.
- l. 27.-Comyn. Perhaps for "coming :" but our author often uses the word comyn for "communion."
P.6,l. 2.-His. For is. Our author (or his transcriber) frequently prefixes $h$ to words beginning with a vowel.
P.6,l.13.-Or doth the contrari. These words are probably repeated by a mistake of the transcriber.
_l. 17.-Ben snibbid, i. e. "censured." The verb to snub in this sense is still used in vulgar English. It is said to be derived from the Swedish. (See Junius.) In Shakespeare the word is used with the spelling sneap; as in Love's Labour Lost, Act I. Scene i.

Biron is like the envious sneaping frost; and in King Henry IV. (Second Part,) Act II. Scene i. Falstaff says,-" My Lord, I will not undergo this sneap without reply." Snib, Snyb, Sneble, and perhaps also Snuff; are all different spellings of the same word, and occur frequently in our old writers. Pope, in his note on the passage last cited from Shakespeare, calls sneap "a Yorkshire word."
—— l. 22.-Aftir the Holi Gost taking. i. e. "after receiving the Holy Ghost."
P. 7, l. 3.-Prescit. Præsciti, reprobate. See also lines 23 and 24 of this page.
_l. 1.5 .-I seid thus : I rehersid a doctor. This is an evident allusion to some former work, or public speech. So also (p. 6, line 1) our author says,-" And thus I graunt now, as oft I hane knowlechid bifor mani witnes," &c.
_l. 6.-Sale worth. i. e. ready for sale. We still have "W Weworth " in our English version of the Bible, Ezek. xxx. 2.

- l. 6.-For thi that. For thi, because. Or perhaps we should read "for that thei."
—— 1. 12.—Sogetis. Subjects; those who are placed under their spiritual care.
-_ l. 19.-That the byjar be profhabili sekir. i. e. that the buyer be proveably (certainly, demonstratively) sure. In the next sentence siker is used as a verb : the word is often spelt sicker. In line 22 we have prouabily, and line 28 pronable.
- 1.24.-Rennun, run, issue not forth.
-l.31.—Stonding ny. i. e. nigh in farour, or in office, to an earthly king.
P. 8, 1. 12.-The Pope's bulle techith. In an ancient Horarium printed by Philippe Pigouchet, Paris, 1493, there is the following allusion to to this Bull (Sign. K. iii. facie) :-
" Pape boniface a donné a tous ceulz qui diront denotement ceste orayson qui sensuit, entre leleuacion du corpus dñi et le dernier Agnus Dei, deux mille ans de vray pardon."

On the next page is the prayer to which this privilege has been granted, which is as follows :-
" Domine iesu qi hanc sacratissimam carnem et preciosum sanguinem de gloriosissime virginis marie utero assumpsisti, et eundem sanguinem de sacratissimo latere tuo in ara crucis pro salute nostra effudisti : et in hac gloriosa carne a mortuis resurrexisti: et ad celos ascendisti cum eodem sacratissimo corpore tuo : iterum uenturus es, iudicare uinos et mortuos in eadem carne : libera nos per hoc sacratissimum corpus tuum, quod modo in altari per manus sacerdotis tractatur, ab omnibus immundiciis mentis et corporis, et ab vniuersis malis et periculis preteritis, presentibus et futuris. Qui uiuis et regnas," &c.

The editor has been permitted to make this extract from a beautiful copy on vellum of this rare book, in the possession of the Earl of Dunraven. The colophon at the end is as follows :-" Ces presentes heures a lusage de Romme furent achevees le .ii. iour de Aust, Lau de grace Mil quattre centz .iiii. xx. et .xiii. Pour Symon vostre Libraire demourant a Paris en la rue neuue nostre dame a lenseigne sainct Jelan leuangeliste."

Our author speaks as if the two thousand years of pardon had been granted to the recitation of the bull; but, if he really nueant this, he is evidently inaccurate, for the privilege was granted to the repetition, not of the bull, but of the foregoing prayer.

In a copy of the " Hore beatissime virginis Marie secundum usum Sarum totaliter ad longum cum multis pulcherrimis orationibus et indulgentiis iam vltimo adiectis," in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, the same prayer occurs with the following rubric in English prefixed.
" & Our holy father the pope Bonifacius sextus hath gramed to all them that say deuontly thys prayer folownge betwene the eleuacyon of our lorde et the .iij. Agnus dei .x. thousande yeres of pardon. Oratio. Domine Jesu Xpe qui hanc," &c.
This copy of the Hours was printed at Paris in 1536: "Impresse Parrhisiis per Franciscum Regnanlt, impensis et sumptihus eiusdem : alme rniuersitatis Parrhisien. lihrarii iurati. Anno domini millesimo quingentesimo tricesimo sexto. Die vero .xxv. Maii."-It differs from the former copy, and from our author, in assigning ten thousand years to this indulgence, which it ascribes to Pope Boniface VI. meaning evidently the Pontiff who is usually styled Boniface VIII. (A. D. 1295) ; for Boniface V I. (A.D. 896) lived but fifteen days after his election, which was also by some supposed to be irregular, so that he is often omitted in the list of pontiffs:* and Boniface VII. (A D. 974) was an Antipope, $\dagger$ and therefore of course not counted.

It does not appear from either of these authorities what our author alluded to in saying that this indulgence was granted " at the instance of a king ;" but it is probable that a collation of other editions or MSS. of the Horarium, if the search were worth the trouble, would clear up this difficulty.
P. 8, l. 14.-As oft as a nobil man. In line 18 our anthor speaks of "lewid men," or laymen, " that can not this orisoun," i. e. who are not learined enough to be able to read it ; and perhaps, therefore, by "a nobil man" he may mean one who is possessed of the education sufficient for using the prayer.
_1. 18.-Putting to orer. i. e. adding moreover. This probably alludes to some provision in the original bull substituting the pater noster, in the case of laymen " who can not this orisoun," for the prayer above cited.

- l. 21.-On groundid. Ungrounded; unfounded.
—— 2. 25.-rapid. Mocked: to jape is to play, or jest. (See Nares's Glossary, in voc.) So p. 9, line 4, japer, i. e. jester.
—_ 26.-Parting. The share or portion of merit.

[^15]P. 8, l. 30.-It behufith to trowe. i. e. we are bound to believe.
P. 9, l. 6.-Thus seith the doctor. The editor has been unable to find who "the doctor" here quoted is.

Barthelmew in casis. Bartholomæus Brixiensis, a celebrated doctor of the canon law, wrote the Apparatus in titulos et Decreta Gratiani, and also in titulos et Decreta librorum V. Decretalium Gregorii IX., which are published in the Corpus Juris Canonici. He is author also of a work $D e$ Casibus Conscientice, of which Oudin tells us that a copy exists in MS. in the library of St. Peter's College, Cambridge. (Oudin. de Script. Eccles. tom. iii. col. 92.) This would seem to be the work here quoted by onr author, (casis being a mistake of the scribe for casibus, see line 17) except that our author at the end of his quotation has given his reference thus: "The Clementyns de pe .c. abus. lı. Bartl. in Casibus," i. e. " Hæc Bartholomæus in Casibus:" by which it appears that the extract from the Clementines was cited from Bartholomæus ; and if so, Bartholomæus Brixiensis cannot be the author referred to, for he died A. d. 1250 (see Fabricius, Biblioth. lib. ii. p. 471) ; whereas the Clementines were not published until the second year of Pope John XX1I. i. e. 1317.
-l. 8.-Also the law seith. Clementin. lib. v. tit. ix. c. 2. abusionibus. The passage referred to is from a Decree of Pope Clement V. in the council of Vienne, A. D. 1312, and is as follows :-
" Ad hæe cum aliqui ex liujusmodi quæstoribus, sicut ad nostram audientiam est perlatum, non sine multa temeritatis audacia, et deceptione multiplici animarum, indulgentias populo motu suo proprio de facto concedant, super votis dispensent, a perjuriis, homicidiis, et peccatis aliis sibi confitentes absolvant, male ablata incerta (data sibi aliqua pecunix quantitate), remittant, tertiam, aut quartam partem de poenitentiis injunctis relaxent : animas tres, vel plures parentum, vel amicorum illorum, qui eleemosynas eis conferunt, de purgatorio (ut asserunt mendaciter), extralant, et ad gaudia paradisi perducant, benefactoribus locorum quorum questores existunt, remissionem plenariam peccatorum indulgeant, et aliqui ex ipsis eos a poena et a culpa (ut eorum verbis utamur) absolvant; nos abusus hujusmodi per quos censura vilescit ecclesiæ, et clarium ecclesire auctoritas ducitur in contemptum, omnimodo aboleri volentes, ea per quoscunque quæstores fieri, vel attentari de cætero districtius inhibemus. -1.24.-A place that is called porciuncula. Portiuncula was a place near Assisium, where was a mined church dedicated to St. Mary of Angels, which was rebuilt and restored by St. Francis of Assisium, at the commencement of his religious life ; it was the favourite scene of his early devotions: in it he conceived the design of founding the celebrated order of Friars Minors, and it subsequently became the centre and mother church of the whole Franciscan family. "Hunc locum (says Wadding) vir sanctus amavit præ ceteris mundi locis. Hic etenim humiliter coepit, hic virtuose profecit, hic foeliciter consummavit ; hunc in morte fratribus, tanquam Virgini carissimum, commendavit....... Hic est locus in quo Fratrum Minorum ordo a S. Francisco per divinæ revelationis instinctum inchoatus est." Annal. Minor t. i. p. 43, Romr, 1731.

The indulgence first given to Portiuncula was this, that every person who after confession and absolution shall visit that church on the second of August, from the first vespers to sun-set, shall obtain a full remission of all sins committed from the day of his baptism to the day of his visit to Portiuncula: see the story of the origin of this indulgence in Wadding, tom. ii. p. 17, et seq. and the arguments in proof of it, ibid. p. 55, sq. The indulgence was first granted by Honorius III. A.D. 122:3; it was afterwards frequently communicated to other churches, and in 1481 the same privilege was extended by Sixtus IV. to all churches of the Franciscan order. See Wadding, tom. xiv. p. 257, and Suysken, Analecta de S. Francisco, part iii. § xi. (Apud Bolland. Acta Sanctorum, in 4 Oct. p. 914, et seq.)

"Whanne he was cursid, he cursid not, and whanne he suffrid he manassid not, but he bitook hym silf to hym that demed hym vniustli." The reading of the Vulgate, " tradebat autem judicanti se injuste," is of course followed by our author.
P. 21, 1. 11.-Were the Archdecoun seith. Guido Baifins (as he is erroneously called by Cave, who followed Trithemius), or more properly Guido Baisius, i. e. de Bayso, or de Bajisio, Archdeacon of Bologna, flourished A.D. 1280, and is usually known by Canonists as "The Archdeacon." He composed a celebrated Commentary on the Decretum, entitled, "Enarrationes super Decreto, sive Rosarium," which has been several times printed. It is to this work most probably that our author refers, and statements similar to that which he quotes occur so frequently in it that it is not easy to point out the particular passage cited. For example, in his commentary on the following canon (Caus. ii. q. 1, c. 11.), "Nemo episcopus, nemo presbyter excommunicet aliquem, antequam causa probetur, propter quam ecclesiastici canones hoc fieri jubent," the Archdeacon says: "Causa, scil. contumacia, pro hac enim sola causa est quis excommunicandus. Ar. xi. q. iii. nemo episcoporum [c. 41] et c. nullus sacerdotum [c. 42] et dicitur tamen excommunicari pro homicidio, pro furto, et hujusmodi, i. e. pro contumacia de tali vel tali crimine. xi. q. iii. certum [c. 43] xxii. q. i. preadicandum [c. 17]. Hug. et videas quod de hoc not. xi. q. iii. episcopi [c. 8] et c. nemo episcoporum [c. 41]. Archidia. super Decreto, sive Guidonis de Bajisio Enarrationes super Decreto, vel Rosarium. Fol. Lugd. 1549. fol. 130, col. 4.

Here, however, the archdeacon quotes Hugo and Innocent, not Lincoln and Innocent, as our anthor states (line 16). This, however, may have been a mistake on the part either of our author or of his transcriber.

He was a man of eminent piety and learning, and, although not canonized at Rome, was by many of his own countrymen spoken of as a saint. See a list of his works in Cave, Hist. Literaria, ad an. 1235.

The story alluded to by our author is thus told by Ralph Higden, in his Polychronicon (fol. cecv. b. Lond. 1527) :- I" Also that yere [1253] deyed Saynt Rubert Grostehed, bysshoppe of Lyncoln, the nynth daye of October. He was cunnynge in all the lyberall artes. And specyally he expowned many thynges in logykytyks and astrologye. He sent to the fourth Pope Innocent a pystle sharpe ynough, that begynneth in this wyse : Our Lord Jhesus Cryste; he sent that pystle by cause the pope greuyd the churches of Englonde with taxes and paymentes undue and uncustomable. Also for he hadde geuen his letyll newe [nephew] a chanonrye with the fyrste that voyded in the chyrche of Lyncoln. But this Robert wolde not receyue the chylde. But he wrote to the pope and sayde, that he nother wolde nor sholde receyue such to the cure of soule that cowde not rule hymselfe. Therfor this Robert was somned to the court and accursed. Thenne from Innocentes court, he appellyd to Crystis owne trone. Thenne after Roberts deth it happed on a nyghte that the pope laye in his bedde and rested, a bisshop apared to hym arrayed as a bysshop, and spake to the pope and sayde, Arise, wretch, and come to pi dome. And smote hym with his crosse on the lyfte syde ryght to the herte. Thenne in the morowe the pope's bedde was founde bloody and the pope deed. THerfore though Roberte was a noble man, and dyde oft miracles, ye court suffired hym not to be canonysed." See also Matthew Paris, Hist. Angl. p. 760 (fol. Lond. 1689).
P. 22, l. 22.-And this is notable to wit in the decre. This is a reference to the words of Gratian, Caus. xxiv. q. 3, part 3, and the following, $c .10$, si igitur, and c.11. cum ergo. The words are, " Illicita ergo excommonicatio, ut ex præmissis apparet, non lædit eum, qui notatur, sed a quo notatur : ac per hoc, qui innocentes sunt, ex alterius crimine condemnari non possunt : sicut ab imprudentibus familiæ potentum pro peccatis dominorum solent notari. Sed adhuc objicitur, quod non solum innocentes, sed nec etiam criminosi sententia maledictionis sint feriendi. Ait enim Christus in Evangelio, Orate pro persequentibus..... Item Apostolus : Benedicite persequentibus vos: Benerlicite et nolite maledicere: Item, Maledici regnum Dei non possiclebunt.

Item Hieronymus (in epist. ad Titum initio cap. iii.). Si igitur Michael non fuit ansus diabolo et certe maledictione dignissimo, judicium inferre blasphemix : quanto magis nos ab omni maledicto puri esse debemus? Merebatur diabolus maledictum: sed per os Archangeli blasphemia exire non debuit. Relege veteres libros, et vide, quæ tribus in monte (farizin constitute sint, ut benedicerent populo, et quæ in monte altero, ut maledicerent: Ruben, qui maculaverat torum parentis, et Zabulon novissimus Liæ filius, et ancillarum liberi in monte Hebel pomutur, ut maledicant his qui maledictione sunt digni.

Item (in lib. Josua) Cum ergo in singulis quibusque fidelium talis sit propositi varietas, hoc mihi designari videtur in hoc loco, quod dimidii illi, qui juxta montem Garizin incedunt (illum, qui ad benedictiones electus est), istos figuraliter indicent, qui non metu poenæ, sed benedictionum et repromissionum desiderio veniunt ad salutem; illi vero dimidii, qui juxta montem Gebal incedunt, in quo maledictiones prolate sunt, istos alios indicent, qui malorum metu, et suppliciorum timore complentes, quæ in lege scripta sunt, perveniunt ad salutem."

Postquam vero unusquisque eos, quos baptizaverat, suos putabat esse, non Christi, in toto orbe decretum est, ut unus de Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris, ad quem omnis ecclesiæ cura pertineret, et schismatum semina tollerentur. Et paulo post. Sicut ergo Presbyteri sciunt se ex Ecclesiæ consuetudine ei, qui sibi Præpositus fuerit, esse subjectos; ita episcopi noverint, se magis consuetudine, quam dispensationis Dominice veritate Presbyteris esse majores, et in commune debere Ecclesiam regere." Also ibid. c. 6. (ex Hieron. ad Rusticum Narbonensem episcopum, de septem gradibus ecclesice.) " Ecce ego dico, presentibus episcopis suis, atque adstantibus in altari, Presbyteros posse sacramenta conficere. Et infra. Si Presbyter Christum consecrat, cum in altario Dei Sacramenta benedicit, benedicere populo non debet, qui Christum etiam meruit consecrare? Et paulo post. Circa laicos, ac mulieres, jubentibus vobis, O injustissimi sacerdotes, Presbyter Dei benedictionis perdit officium, amittit linguæ opus, non habet confidentiam predicandi, truncatus est omni parte virtutum, solum Presbyteri nomen habet, plenitudinem, ac perfectionem, quæ consecrationi ejus competit, non retentat. 1.19.-For thi seith Seint Gregori, Poule seith to Thimothe. The word "Thinothe" is probably a mistake of the scribe, for the reference is to Tit. i. 9. The passage is quoted in the Decretum (part. i. dist. xliii. c. 1.) from St. Gregory, Pastoral. part. ii. c. 4. The words are, "Hinc Paulus ait ad Titum: Ut potens sit exhortari in doctrina sana, et eos, qui contradicunt, redarguere. Hinc per Malachiam dicitur : Labia Sacerdotis custodiunt scientiam et legem requirunt ex ore ejus, quia Angelus Domini exercituum est. Hinc per Esaianı Dominus admonet, diceas, Clamu, ne cesses, quasi Camd. soc. 14.
tuba exalta vocem tuam. Præconis quippe officium suscipit, quisquis ad sacerdotium accedit, ut ante adventum judicis, qui terribiliter sequitur, ipse scilicet clamando gradiatur." And, after referring to Exod. xxviii. 33, 35, he adds, "Sacerdos namque ingrediens vel egrediens moritur, si de eo sonitus non auditur."

In the marginal reference, "c. 5 ," ought to be "c. 15," which was the old division : "dt. 43," is evidently " dist. 43," the reference to the Decretum.

$P$. 31, l. 24.-Uphauns. i. e. lift up.

- l. 29.-Curats. Our author is here arguing against those who maintained that "simple priests," (that is, those who were merely priests, and not curates, having no cure of souls,) were not bound to preach. His argument is, that even if St. Gregory spake of those who had cure of souls, yet it would not follow that "simple priests" are excused. The subject was a favourite topic with the Lollards. Thus the sixth of the "Articles of John Purvey, which he afterwards recanted," as given by Fox (Acts and Monuments, vol. i. p. 619. Lond. 1684) is, "Whosoever taketh upon him the office of Priesthood, although he have not the charge of souls committed unto him, according to the custom of the church, not only may, but ought to preach the Gospel freely unto the people ; otherwise he is a thief, excommunicated of God, and of the holy church."

In the Articles presented to the King against the Lollards, in 1382, they were accused (Art. 11.) of holding "That priests and deacons, whosoever they are, are obliged, and ought to preach publicly to the people, on account of the orders they have taken, although they have not a people or cure of souls." (Lewis, Life of Wicliffe, p. 105, quoted from Knighton.) See also the Articles and conclusions against William Swinderby, Fox (ubi supra, p. 534, 538).

P. 32, l. 9.-Hordres. Orders ; meaning those in holy orders. —_ Iarche. Hierarchy.
- l. 9.-The argument of our author appears to be this:"They answer the passage adduced from St. Gregory, by saying that by preaching he means reading at the mass; but if this be so, then every man and woman may preach, for every man and woman may read in a language unknown, $i$. e. at the mass. Therefore if every man may preach, it is folly to look for orders." The unfairness of such an argument is manifest. It turns on the double meaning of the phrase " reading at the mass :" the opponents of our author maintained that the priest preaches the Gospel when he reads the Gospel at the mass, but they did not allow that every man and woman may in this sense read at mass.

"Sciant igitur sacerdotes Scripturas sanctas, et canones, ut omne opus eorum in prædicatione et doctrina consistat: atque ædificent cunctos, tam fidei scientia, quam operum disciplina."
—— 1. 29.—Therfore the prestis. This part of the quotation, which does not occur in the Council of Toledo, or in the Decretum, seems taken from Isidor. Hispal. Senten. Lib. III. c. xlvi. "Sacerdotes pro populorum iniqnitate damnantur, si eos aut ignorantes non erudiant, aut peccantes non arguunt, testante Domino per Prophetam : Speculatorem dedi te domui Israel. Si non fueris locutus, ut se custodiat impius a via sua, ille in iniquitate sua morietur: sanguinem autem ejus de manu tua requiram. Sic enim Heli sacerdos pro filiorum iniquitate damnatus est : et licet eos delinquentes admonuit, sed tamen non, ut oportebat, redarguit." (Isid. Hispal. Opp. p. 683, c. i. C. fol. Par. 1601.)

The original is Si quis sine crimine est, unius uxoris vir, filios habens fideles, $& c$. ; and Wicliffe's version in the printed text is, "For cause of this thing I lefte thee at Crete, that thou amende tho thingis that failen, and ordeyne prestis bi citees, as also I disposid to thee, if ony man is with outen cryme; an husbonde of o wijf, and hath feithful sones, not in accusacioun of leccherie, or not suget, for it bihoveth a bischop to be without cryme : a dispendour of God." &c.

> That Neptune's arms, who clippeth thee about, Would bear thee from the knowledge of thyself.

In the printed text of Wicliffe's Version the corresponding clause is "takynge that trewe word;" which is perhaps derived from the reading obtinentem for amplectentem, a form in which the Latin fathers frequently cite this passage. See Sabatier, in loc.

- 1.24.-And eft the decre biddith. Decret. Dist. xxxii. c. 6. ( $3^{a}$ part.). This passage is quoted in an epistle of Urban II. (cited by Gratian,) from an epistle of Gregory VII. (lib. ii. reg. ep. 45.) " Officium Simoniacorum, et in fornicatione jacentium, scienter nullo modo recipiatis, et quantum potestis tales a sanctis ministeriis, ut oportuerit, prohibeatis." The rest of this section seems to have been taken from the same epistle of Urban II. although it cannot be said to be a translation of it.

P. 48, 1. 30.-Hector Thebanus. Ibid. Instead of Hector, however, the printed copies of Gratian, and of St. Jerone's works, have Crates Thebanus. Nos suffarcinati auro Christum pauperem sequimur : et sub pretextu eleemosynæ pristinis opibus incubantes, quomodo possumus aliena fideliter distribuere, qui nostra timide reservamus? Plenus venter facile de jeinniis disputat."

Crates Thebanus was a follower of Diogenes the Cynic, B. C. 328 , and is said to have given his money away on beconing a philosopher. Diogenes Laertius gives the story on the authority of Antis-

-1.4.-That prestis to sing may not first mak covenaunt without symonie. This was a favourite position of the Lollards. Thus among the opinions of the Lollards enumerated in the petition of the House of Lords to the King, A. D. 1382, the tenth is, "That it is not lawful for a presbyter to hire out his work." (Lewis, Life of Wiclif, p. 105. Oxford, 1820.) And the seventh conclusion ohjected against W. Swinderby (A.D. 1389) was, "That a Priest taking for annual, through covenant, in that he is a schismatic and cursed." To this accusation he answers, "This said I never, in these terms : but thus I said, and yet say with protestation put before, that no Priest ows to sell by bargaining and covenant his ghostly travel, ne his masses, ne his prayers, ne God's Word, ne hallowings, baptism, ne confirming, order giving, for weddings, for shrift, for housel, or for ennointing; any worldly men's to ask or take for these, or for any of these, or for any ghostly thing, he errs and doth simony." Fox, Acts and Monuments, vol. i. p. 534, fol. Lond. 1684.

-l. 11.-This by Jhoun. Perhaps Johannes Semeca (see note on p. 20, 1. 29); the foregoing quotation is probably from his gloss on the Decretum, although the Editor has not been able to find it in the printed copies. So Wicliffe's New Testament, Rom. v. 7. "For unnethis dieth ony man for the iust man," and 1 Pet. iv. 18. "And if a iust man unnethe schal be saned."
-l. 20.-After Hostiensis and Innocent, and eft Hostiensis. Henricus de Segusio, called Hostiensis from the name of his bishopric, died 1271, or 1281. He was anthor of the celebrated Summa utriusque Juris, called Aurea Summa Hostiensis, and also of the Expositio in sex libros Decretalium. The Editor has not found the passage or passages here referred to by our author, but in the following extract from the Summa Aurea, the same argument is stated:-"Quod si clericus, precio appreciatus, vigilet cum defuncto et dicat psalterium? Respondeo : si ita dixit, Pro sex denariis legam psalterium, simonia est. Sed si ita dixit, Pro sex denariis vigilabo cum defuncto hac nocte, non est simonia : quamvis tacite insit quod debeat legere." —Hostiensis Summe Lib. V. n. 5, col. 1183.

The reference to Innocent is probably to the Commentary of Pope Innocent IV. on the Decretals, lib.iv. tit. v. c. 3. Quoniam enormis. See Apparatus Mirificus Innocentii IV. 4to. Paris. 1514. fol. cx.

P. 52, l. 22.-Trentaylis. A Trentall was an oflice of thirty masses said for a deceased person, generally on the thirty days immediately following his death; from whence it was often called "a month's mind." This is still very common in Ireland. In the Latin of the Middle Ages it was called Tricenarium, Tricenarius, Trentale, Trentena, Trentenum, and in French Trentel. Vide Du Cange, and Nares.

-1. 12.-And thus seith Parisiensis in his bok. The book here quoted is the Verbum Abbreviatum of Peter "Cantor Parisiensis," as he is commonly called, from his office of Precentor in the Cathedral of Paris. He was a native of Poictiers, and was elected to the see of Tournay in 1191; but, the election having been declared invalid, he retired to the Cistercian Abbey of Long Pont, in the diocese of Soissons, where he died in his novitiate, A. D. 1197.*

The Verbum Abbreviatum has been printed, with notes, &c. by Don George Galopin, at Mors in Haynaut, 4to. 1639. The Editor of these pages has not had an opportunity of consulting Dom Galopin's edition: he is the possessor, however, of a very beautiful MS. of the Verbum Abbreviatum, formerly belonging to the Monastery of St. Martin of Tournay, and written early in the 13th century. The following passage, cited from this MS. is probably that which is here referred to by our author :-"Item turpius vendimus quam Judas eo quod deteriores sumus. Ille enim quem purum hominem credebat, [^16]cum familia etiam ejus indigeret, vendidit. Nos vero quem scimus Deum verum et hominem vendimus. Hlle pro xxx argenteis, nos pro denario et pretio vilissimo. Item ille pœenitens hæc non vere, retulit et rejecit argenteos. In ecclesia vero non est qui turpiter acquisitos rejiciat."

Et ut breviter transeatur, omni genere flagitii, facinoris, abominationis, et novæ in his adinventionis, secundum dictum prophetæ, coinquinati : Deo et curiæ cœelesti summè abominabiles et odibiles effecti; quia per ipsos nomen Dei in omnibus gentibus blasphematur. Cumque pastorum conversatio sit liber, doctrina et instructio laicorum, ipsi sunt evidenter errorum magistri et malorum omnium: Et quomodo non tunc hæretici, maximècum verbum operis efficacius suadeat verbo oris, et cum ipsi ex officio sunt generatores ad vitam æternam; quomodo abutentes hac vi generativa non sunt, consonanter verbis prophetarum, corporalibus illis Sodomitis pejores et abominabiliores, presertim cum melioris virtutis pejor et abominabilior sit abusio? Ipsique pastores sunt ex officio, lux et sol mundi, ipsum illuminans et vivificans : e contrario autem facientes, pro luce densissimas tenebras effundentes et pro vitali calore frigus corrumpens et mortificans, manifestissimè sunt totius mundi perditores. Sed quæ est hujus tanti mali prior et originalis causa, fons et origo? dicere veliementissimè contremisco et expavesco; silere tamen non audeo, ne incidam in illud væ Propheta dicentis, ve mihi quia tacui, quia vir pollutus labiis ego sum. Causa fons et origo hujus est hæc curia; non solùm eò quòd haec mala non dissipat, et has aboninationes non purgat, cum ea sola hoc maximè possit, et ad hoc summè teneatur, sed et eò amplius, quòd ipsa quoque per suas dispensationes et provisiones et collationes cura pastoralis, tales, quales pratacti sunt, pastores, imò mundi perditores, in oculis solum constituit hoc ut provideat vitæ alicujus temporali, multa millia animarum pro quarum qualibet sempiternè vivificandâ, Filius Dei morte turpissimâ voluit condemnari, devorationi summi bestiarum agri tradit et sempiternæ morti. Tradens enim curam ovilis gregis, in medio luporum rapacissimorum, ursorum et leonum, alicui, ut lac et lanam tollat, impotenti, aut ignoranti aut nolenti, aut negligenti gregem educere et in pascua minare, et in ovile reducere, leonibus, ursis et lupis nec ad modicum pro salute gregis se objicenti, nonne gregen tradit devorationi et morti, et mortis ipsius reatu tenetur, ctiamsi accidat aliquam casu fortuito mortem effugere? Tradens navis oneratæ hominibus in portum salutis dirigendis per medium maris scopulosi et procellosi, gubernaculum et gubernandi officium paralytico, aut artem gubernationis ignoranti, et talis officii ministerium inexperto, aut laborem gubernationis sustinere nolenti et negligenti, ut is naulo à singulis suscepto ditetur, nonne et navem et eos qui in navi sunt, perdit, et perditionis ommium incurrit reatum, et licèt eorum aliquis naufragii evadat periculum? Quinimo talem traditionem, cum teneatur et possit, non impediens, eodem reatu irretitur et constringitur. ...... O quam amara dilectio et retrograda promotio! ut dilectum super mane ad momentum elevet, ipsum et se in tenebras dejicit exteriores."
P.55, l. 1.-jekun. This word seems intended to represent the word " superaddunt" in the original, unless we suppose our author's copy of Grosthead's sermon to have had a different reading. ?
- l.3.-Hem a towere. The Latin, of which this appears intended for a translation, is "super quo percutiat eos Deus ultra." There has probably been some mistake or various reading.
P. 55, l. 7.-The lesynd of the herd, "pastorum conversatio." Illyricus, in the extract he has given from this Discourse of Grosthead (Catal. testium Veritatis, fol. Argentinæ, 1562, p. 363), cites the passage thus :-" Cumque pastorum conversatio gregis sit libera doc.trina et instructio, ipsi sunt evidentes magistri malorum onnium." Our author's copy must have read "gregis sit liber, ipsi sunt, &c." omitting the intervening words. Lesynd is probably cognate with the old word leasow, or lessow, to feed, or as a subst. pasture, (see Nares's Glossary in voc.) and with the Saxon lerpe.
- l. 13.-Werr, worse.
_l. 17.—Lifly zet, " lively, or vital, heat." The Latin shews that $z^{e}$ is for heat: "pro vitali calore frigus corrumpens."
-l.18.-Wo. What.
_l. 19.-Formar. In the Latin "prior." $W_{e} l$, i. e. well, source or spring-" fons, et origo."
——l. 20.-Ungly, perhaps for only. Tremel, tremble.
—— l. 28.-Hyrdis. i. e. herds, shepherds, "pastores." $3 t$, yca. Peruey, provide, "providcat."
_l.30.-Swelluing. Swallowing, " devorationi."
P. 56, 1. 2.-Schape. Escape.
——. 5.-A may. "A" seems here put for and, "cum teneatur et possit." Strenid. i. e. constrained, "constringitur." —_l. 6.-Luf, love, " dilectio." Koward, the meaning of this word is not very clear.
-l. 7.-Above a vain thing. The original, as printed by Brown, is "super mane;" our author, however, evidently read super inane. _l. 9.-Odo. This was probably Odo de Sheritona, an English Cistercian Monk, who flourished about the year 1184, and whose sermons were published at Paris in 1520 by Matthew Makkerel, who has dedicated them to John Fisher, Bishop of Rochester, under the title of " Flores Sermonum ac Evangeliorum Dominicalium excellentiss. Magistri Odonis Cancellarii Parrhisien. omni sale, lepore, ac eruditione refertissimi : cum eorundem indice." The work bears internal evidence of having been composed by a Cistercian (see fol. cliii. V.), and Oudin is of opinion that the Editor is wrong in supposing the author to have been Chancellor of Paris. De Scriptoribus eccles. tom. ii. col. 1624.
P. 56, 7. 9.-Prelats not preching. This passage does not appear to occur in the printed copy of Odo's Sermons : at least the Editor, after some trouble, has not succeeded in finding it: and yet there is a reference in the index which leads to the suspicion that it was once in the work, and probably struck out in the proof sheets as too coarse an attack on the bishops to be printed even in that age. The reference is, "Herodiani potius quam Christiani prælati, xxviii. H.;" but the passage referred to makes no mention of prelates, or of prelates not preaching : it is as follows :-" Sed quia tam clerici quam laici plus desiderant succedere Herodi in divitiis, quam Christo, licet christiani nuncupentur, in tormentis, ideo potius herodiani quam christiani nuncupentur." And the same idea is repeated, fol. xxxvii. G. "Malunt quidam potius successores esse Herodis, quam Christi: qui potius herodiani quam christiani sunt nominandi."
—Rather pilats than prelats. The play upon the words would be more manifest if we had the original of this passage, which was probably, " Pilati magis quam prælati, spoliatores, non speculatores, herodiani Herodis, non hæredes Christi."

- 1. 11.-Kaff. Chaff.

——. 12.-As a nap in the rof. This clause is very obscure, and renders it matter of regret that the original of this quotation has not been found.
—— 20.-Dowue sone. i. e. "dove's son," or "son of a dore;" see p. 57, line ult. where we have "sellars of dowuis," i. e. of doves. "Dove's son" is evidently intended by our author as a translation of Bar-iona. See Hieronym. contra Ruffinum, lib. i. n. 19, and De interpret. nomiuum Heb. in voce, where he says, "Bar-jona, filius columbæ. Syrum pariter et Hebræum. Bar quippe, lingua Syra, filius, et Jona columba utroque sermone dicitur." In the printed text of Wicliffe's New Testament Bar-jona is not translated.
P. 56, l. 28.-Thole. Suffer, from the Anglo-Saxon polan, pati, tolerare, sustinere. Of the olde men. i. e. of the elders: in Wicliffe's New Testament this passage is rendered "Fro that time Jhesus bigan to schewe his disciplis, that it bihoned him to go to Ierusalen, and suffre many thingis of the elder men, and of the scribis, and pryncis of the preestis, and be slayn, and the thridde day to rise asen."

- l.31.-Schild. i. e. sheild, avert this from thee. "Absit a tc, Domine." Vulg. Wicliffe's New Testament has "fer be it fro thee, Lorl." Be merciful to thiself. Our author here seems to quote from memory, and combines together two versions of the same words. The Latin Fathers often cite the passage Propitius tibi esto, and there are examples also of their uniting the two versions as our author has done. See Sabatier, in loc.
P. 57, l. 4.-Silk behight. Such promise.
- l. 10.-Wlatis. So in Wicliffe's New Testament, Rom. ii. 22, "thou that wlatist mawmetis." The Anglo-Saxon wlæzau signifies nauseare, fastidive. See Lye.
-l. 11.-Wuworscippist. This is a mistake of the press for wnworscippist. i. e. unworshipest, dishonourest, thou God. $W$ is used for $u$.
- l. 16.-Parisiensis. The Editor has not found this quotation in the Verbum Abbreviatum of Peter Cantor. There can be little doubt, however, that the same author already cited under the name of " Parisiensis" must be intended.
- l. 18.-A moldewarp. i. e. a mole, talpa. So called, quasi terram ejiciens, from the Anglo-Saxon molse, earth, clay, and weoppan, jacere, ejicere.
- l. 21.-And Odo seith thus. This passage occurs in the Flores Sermonum of Odo, already spoken of fol. cvi. G._cvii. L. "Ementes et vendentes sunt qui quæstum pietatem pntant; emunt ut carius vendant: . . . . . . . . Totius ecclesiæ jam fervet zelus pro dignitate tuenda, pro possessionibus multitudinis lionoris totum datur, sanctitati nihil. Et sic antidotum rersum est in renenum : et quod inventum fuerat ad remedium reperitur ad mortem. Dominus procepit filiis Levi ne sortem haberent in terra, sed potius ipse esset pars illorum : sed ipsum jam contemnentes lucra terrena sectantur. Altaria Christi jam mense sunt nummulariorum: de quibus cupidi faciunt mensas campsorum, qumm missas tanquam monetam pro monetata exponunt. Et tales missas celebrant quas magis sciunt esse lucrativas. . . . . . . Cum inofficiantur officiis que magis lucrosa creduntur, vendentes columbas sunt, qui sacramenta et cætera spiritualia vendunt, et ipsum corpus Christi venale constitumnt, et si non ore, tamen corde, dicentes cum Juda, Quid rultis mihi dare, et ego vobis eum tradam? Sic clamant monachi habitum vendentes: et sacerdotes divina celebrantes . . . . . . . . . . . . Murus ecclesiæ est pastor, i. quicunque qui firmiter debet et fortiter resistere, ne personæ intromittantur indigne, iste murus rumpitur. . . . . . . . . sic porci et canes ingrediuntur et ccclesiam maculant. Similiter cum prælatus per precinm vel peccatum corrumpitur, canes impudici non latrare valentes, i. plerique clerici bestialiter riventes in sancta ecclesia collocantur. Et tunc abominatio desolationis, quæ dicta Matthæi xxiiij. est et a Daniele, stat in loco sancto. Quæ est enim major abominatio quam cum porcus sacra indnit vestimenta, et oflicia celebrat divina? Canes et vulpes psalmos ruminant; pilosus alter ad alternm clamat ....... In ecelesia quandoque praest leo superbiæ. Hi sunt qui tanquam dominantes in cleros omnia volunt ad nutum suum disponere. Ibidem, murmurando sibilat serpens invidiæ, qui omnibus detrahit, onmes inflammat . . . . . Ibiden, dentibus frendet aper iracundix : acidia laborat onager tristitix : qui cum temporale incommodum, frigus, vel famem patitur, tristatur, et in bonis spiritualibus afficitur. Ibi fauces aperit lupi rapacitas, qui pro oblationibus evangelia et missas multiplicat. Ibidem discurrit ursus gulositatis, qui ut ventrem impleat alta voce jubilat. Ibidem porcus immunditiæ qui quotiens poterit in lutum Inxuriæ se immergit.

CAMD. SOC. 14.

Vulpes dolositatis qui plures habens foreas seu bursas omnibus ministrabit. i. Judas qui plures loculos portat. Hi sunt celelararii et cæteri officiales qui ecclesiam Dei diuersimode defraudant, ut parentes et meretrices ditare valeant. Et cum dives moritur tunc processio bestiarum quæ in parietibus depingitur figuraliter adimpletur. Porcus et lupus et cætera animalia crucem et cæreos portant, campanas pulsant: et dominus Berengarins .i. ursus, missam celebrabit. Leo cum ceteris optime reficietur. Numquid pro clanore talium anima usurarii vel militis rapacis deferetur in coelum? Immo quanto magis ululabunt, tanto magis dæmones animam torquebunt."

- l. 25.-Triacle. Here used as the translation of antidotum, and in the original signification of its root theriacum ( $\theta$ notaкòv), viz. a remedy against the poison of animals. The word triaculum is found in this sense in the Latinity of the fourteenth century. See Adelung, Glossar. Manuale.

P. 58, l. 4.-The hird. i. e. herd, or shepherd, pastor. —l. 6.-Suyn. Swine.
- l. 10.-The lioun of prid. "Leo superbiæ," a very plain allusion to the Pope. But either our author had a different reading, or gave the passage a turn more accordant to his own sentiments, for the crime of " lording the clergy" is attributed in the printed words of Odo, not to the Lion of pride, but to all those whose degeneracy is here censured: and that with the qualification of a tanquam. " Hi sunt qui, tanquam dominantes in cleros, omnia volunt ad nutum suum disponere."
- l. 12.-The hound of wrechfulness. "Aper iracundiæ."
- l. 13.-The feldhasser of dyeryness laborith to swernes. The corresponding passage of the original seems to be "acidia laborat onager tristitiæ." Swernes, Anglo-Saxon ruennerre, aciditas, sourness. Feldhasser, the field ass, or wild ass, perhaps from the Saxon pibe arra, wild ass. Dyeryness, for Dryeryness, i. e. dreariness, AngloSaxon oneonıgnỳrre, tristitia, moestitia.
P. 58, l. 16.-Wombe. Belly.
-l. 17.-The mig. "Lutum luxuriæ;" mirg is perhaps a corruption of the Anglo-Saxon meox, mud.

Tood. i. e. tod, a word still used commonly in Scotland, and in the north of Ireland for a fox, "vulpes dolositatis."
_l. 20.-The sergis. "Cereos." See what has already been said on this word, in the note on p. 48, 1. 8.

- 1.21.-Si, Beringary the bere. Every reader of Slakespeare is familiar with Sir , as the title of a priest, answering to the Latin Dominus, and still applied in our universities to Bachelors of Arts. Why the name of Berengarius is used here, the Editor is unable to say, unless Odo, who was an Euglishman, and probably preached in English, intended some play upon the word in reference to " the bere."
- l. 22.-3er the more. There is an omission here by which the point of the original is wholly lost: jer is perhaps for e'er, unless it be a mistake of the transcriber for $\mathfrak{j} e$, i. e. yea, immo.
_- l. 32.-And thus is hadde in decreis. These are Gratian's remarks after Caus. i. q. 1. c. 43. "Ecce cum honoris periculum evadant, ut cætera Sacramenta sacerdotaliter administrare permittantur, ab hoc solo non modo pro hæresi, vel pro qualibet majori culpa, sed etiam pro negligentia removentur. In quibus omnibus solicite notandum est, quod Sacramentum Sacerdotalis promotionis pre cæteris omnibus magis accurate et digne dandum, vel accipiendum est ; quia nisi ita collatum fuerit, eo desinet esse ratum, quo non fuerit rite perfectum. Cætera enim Sacramenta unicuique propter se dantur, et unicuique talia fiunt, quali corde, vel conscientia accipiuntur. Istud solum non propter se solum, sed propter alios datur : et ideo necesse est, ut vero corde, mundaque conscientia, quantum ad se, sumatur, quantum ad alios vero, non solum sine omni culpa, sed etiam sine omni infamia, propter scandalum fratrum : ad quorum utilitatem, non solum ut præsint, sed etiam ut prosint, Sacerdotium datur."

"Plerumque contingit, ut hic judicis locum teneat, cujus ad locum vita minime concordat: ac proinde sæpe agitur, ut vel dannet immeritos, vel alios ipse ligatus solvat. Sæpe in solvendis ac ligandis subditis, suæ voluntatis motus, non antem causarum merita sequitur. Unde fit ut ipse ligandi aut solvendi potestate se privet, qui hanc pro suis voluntatibus, et non pro subjectorum moribus exercet. Sæpe fit, ut erga quemlibet proximum odio vel gratia moveatur Pastor: judicare autem de subditis digne nequeunt, qui in subditormm causis sua vel odia vel gratiam sequuntur. Unde recte per Prophetam dicitur, Mortificabant animas qua non moriuntur ; et vivificabant animas quae non vivunt. Non morientem quippe mortificat, qui justum damnat. Et non victurum vivificare nititur, qui reum a supplicio absolvere conatur. Causæ ergo pensandæ sunt, et tunc ligandi atque solvendi potestas exercenda. Videndum est quæ culpa præcessit, aut quæ sit poenitentia secuta post culpam : ut quos omnipotens Deus per compunctionis gratiam visitat, illos Pastoris sententia absolvat. Tunc enim vera est absolutio presidentis, cum interni arbitrium sequitur judicis. Quod bene quatriduani mortui resuscitatio significat, quæ videlicet demonstrat, quia prius mortuum Dominus vocavit et vivificavit, dicens, Lazare veni foras; et postmodum is qui vivens egressus fuerat a discipulis est solutus, sicut scriptum est, Cumque egressus esset qui fuerat ligatus institis, tunc dixit discipulis: solvite eum, et sinite abire. Ecce illum discipuli jam viventem solvunt, quem magister resuscitaverat mortuum. Si enim discipuli Lazarum mortuum solverent, fretorem magis ostenderent, quam virtutem. Ex qua consideratione intuendum est, quod illos nos debemus per pastoralem anthoritatem solvere, quos auctorem nostrum cognoscimus per suscitantem gratiam vivificare. . . . . . . Veniat itaque foras mortuus, id est, culpam confiteatur peccator. Venientem vero foras solvunt discipuli; ut Pastores ecclesiæ ei poenam debeant amovere, quam meruit, qui non erubuit confiteri quod fecit. Hæc de solutionis ordine breviter dixerim : ut sub magno moderamine Pastores ecclesiæ vel solvere studeant, vel ligare." Certe si gladium reprimit, vincula dissolvit, cur laxat exsilio? Cur latrocinandi qua potest clementiore via non eripit facultatem, qui voluntatem extorquere non potuit? Deinde inter duos, hoc est, accusatorem et reum, pari periculo de capite decernentes, alterum si non probasset, alterum si esset ab accusatore convictus, non id quod justitiæ est, judex sequatur; sed dum miseretur rei, damnet probantem: aut dum accusatori favet qui probare non possit, addicat innoxium. _1.11.-And Austeyn seith. It was scarcely worth while to spend much time in searching for such a quotation as this.
-l. 12.-And Odlo seith. This passage does not seem to occur in the Flores Sermonum of Odo, which have been printed.

_1.31.—But wat trow we this seint to cry this day.-A very remarkahly similar observation is made on the foregoing passage of St. Augustin in the preface of our Book of Common Prayer (of Ceremonies). "Some are put away because the great excess and multitude of them hath so increased in these latter days, that the burden of them was intolerable; whereof Saint Augustine in his time complained, that they were grown to such a number, that the estate of Christian people was in worse case concerning that matter than were the Jews. And he counselled that such yoke and burden should be taken away, as time would serve quietly to do it. But what would Saint Augustine have said, if he had seen the ceremonies of late days used among us; whereunto the multitude used in his tine was not to be compared?"
P.75, 1.32.-Lawis of the kirk incorporat and extrivagaunt. All collections of Decretals subsequent to the Decretum of Gratian were termed extra, or extravagantes: "eo quod collecta sunt ex iis quæ extra Decretum Gratiani vagabantur." The term is now commonly applied to the Decretals of Pope John XXII. published in the ninth year of his Pontificate, A. D. 1325, and to the subsequent collection entitled Extravagantes Communes; but our author no doubt referred to the earlier collections. The Extravagantes Communes were evidently not completed until the end of the fifteenth century, for they contain a constitution of Sixtus IV. passed in the year 1483. See Van Espen, Comment. in Jus Canon. tom. iv. Diss i. § i. and Diss. xvi. Fol. Lovan. 1753. By "the lawis of the kirk incorporat" therefore our author probably means the Decretum of Gratian and the Decretals of Gregory IX. which were incorporuted with them; by the " lawis of the kirk extrivagant," all other collections, especially those of Boniface VIII, (now called Liber Sextus Decretalium) and of John XXII.
P. 76, l. 1.-Batails. This word and its derivatives are still in use in the universities. It occurs also in old writers in the signification, of to feed, to futten, to fertilize. See Richardson's Dict. in roc. Battel: who supposes it to be cognate with the Anglo-Saxon batan, inescare, to bait, or feed. Our author, however, evidently uses the word for provisiones, not in the sense of food, or eatables, but in reference to the Papal provisions or nominations of clerks to benefices.
P.76, l. 1.-A3en reseruacouns, furst frutis, and other spolingis of goodis of the kirk.-See The Last Age of the Church, a tract attributed to Wicliffe, and published from the only MS. of it known to exist, by the Editor of the present volume. In a note (p. xl of that work) the nature of the reservations exacted by the Court of Rome from the English Church in our author's time is explained.
-l.3.-Raneyn. Perhaps this word should be raueyn, i. e. wrath, anger.
- 1.7.-To disseile. This word the Editor has not met with elsewhere.
-1.10.-Efter the lawe to him that brekith seith, to him that brekith feith. Sic MS. But the words "to him that brekith," are evidently repeated by mistake. Correct the passage thus: "Efter the law to him that brekith feith seith, feith schal be brokun to him."
- 1.12.-Eft an other witti in that sam law seith thus. The Editor regrets extremely that, after spending much time and labour in the attempt to discover the author from whom this long quotation is taken, he has been forced at length to give it up in despair.

The lower orders of Irish often say, "It is kind for him to do so and so :" as for example, "It is kind for him to be good and hospitable, for his father was so before him," meaning it is natural for him, what one would expect him to be or to do. So the clown in Shakespeare (Ant. and Cleop. Act V. Sc. 2) says, "You must think this, look you, that the worm will do his kind," i. e. his nature.

P. 104, l. 4.-Prosper, in his book of Contemplatif Lif, seith thus. The book here quoted has been long attributed to S. Prosper, and has been printed among his works; but the learned seem now agreed that the real author was Julianus Pomerius, who flourished about A.d. 498 or 500. (See Ceillier, Hist. des Auteurs, tom. xv. p. 451, sq. Oudin. De Scriptor. tom. i. col. 1193 sq.) The following passage from the treatise De Vita contemplativa, lib. ii. cap. 4, appears to be that which is here cited by our author. "Illos dico, qui velut conversi, ex pristinis moribus nihil abjiciunt, non mente mutati, sed veste: nec actu, sed habitu. Hi sunt qui sermone tantum, non opere, seculo renuntiasse contenti seculariter vivunt, et vitia sua inani professione vite melioris abscondunt, ac religionis imaginariæ nomine palliati, opinionem virtutis pro virtute suscipiunt. Predicant magna, nec faciunt : accusant vitia, nec deponunt. Publice sibi displicere simulant, quod occulte committunt. Magni student videri, non fieri. Laudant eos, quorum cupiunt prædicatione laudari." Opp. D. Prosperi Aquitanici, p. 221. Col. Agr. 1690, 12mo. Our author appears either to have had before him a copy differing considerably from the printed editions, or else to liave added to his quotation several interpolations of his own. The edition of the treatise $D_{e}$ Vita Contemplativa, published separately in 4to. A.D. 1487 (s. l.) agrees cxactly with the foregoing extract; but it is by no means improbable that the stronger expressions against the hypocrisy of the religious orders may have been expurgated by the first editor of the work.

l.27.-Of theis seith Bernard to Eugeny the Pope. Bernard. De Consideratione, ad Eugenium III. Papam. Lib. IV. cap. ii. n. 4. (Operum Edit. Bened. tom. ii. 438, D.) " Hi sunt qui subesse non sustinent, præesse non norunt; superioribus infideles, inferioribus importabiles. Hi inverecundi ad petendum, ad negandum frontosi. Hi importuni ut accipiant, inquieti donec accipiant, ingrati ubi acceperint. Docuerunt linguam suan grandia loqui, cum operentur exigua. Largissimi promissores, et parcissimi exhibitores: blandissimi adulatores, et mordacissimi detractores : simplicissimi dissimulatores, et nalignissimi proditores."
P. 104, l. 29.-Vnder lowtid: subesse. To lout, or lowt, is to be subject, to bow, to pay obeisance. See p. 85. 1. 8.
——Thei kan not: i. e. they ken, or know not ; preesse non norunt. In line 31, they ken is used in the sense of "they teach," or make to know ; docuerunt.
P. 105, 1. 1-Bihiztars. Promissors.
_-_ l. 2.-And Lincoln seith thus: This passage the Editor has not been able to find in any of the printed works of Grosthead to which he has had access.

—l. 25 -Thi chere: a mistake probably for cheke: " in sudore vultus tui."
P. 106, l. 9.-And her seith Austeyn, in his book of warkis of monkis. August. De Opere Monachorum. n. xiii. (Ed. Ben. xiv.) "Innocente et honeste quæ apta sunt humanis usibus operabatur [apostolus]; sicut sese habent opera fabrorum, structorun, sutorum, rusticorum, et his similia . . . . . . . Si Judæos discerint, Patriarchæ pecora paverunt: si Græcos, quos etianı Paganos dicimus, etiam Philosophos multum sibi honorabiles, sutores habuerunt : si Ecclesiam Dei, homo ille justus, et ad testimonium conjugalis semper mansuræ virginitatis electus, cui desponsata erat virgo Maria, quæ peperit Christum, faber fuit." Edit. Bened. tom. vi. 485.
P. 106, l. 12.-Sewars. "Sutores." This word is spelt sowtars, lines 14 and 18.
—— Feld telars. Field tillers, rustici.
- 1. 23. And in the decre is this noted. This is a reference to the words of Gratian, Dist. xci. "Quod si Ecclesia ei [ecclesiastico scil. viro] sufficere non potacrit, proprio artificiolo, vel agricultura (exemplo Apostoli, qui de labore manumm vivebat) sibi necessaria inveniat: ita tamen, ut occasione sui operis vigiliis ecclesia non desit."
_l.25.-And eft Austeyn seith. De Operc Monach. n. xvij. (Ed. Ben. 20). "Quid enim agant qui operari corporaliter nolunt, cui rei vacent scire desidero. Orationibus, inquiunt, et psalmis, et lectioni, et verbo Dei. Sancta plane vita et Christi suavitate laudabilis. Sed si ab his avocandi non sumus, nec manducandum est, nec ipsæ escæ quotidie præparandæ, ut possint apponi et assumi. Si autem ad ista vacare servos Dei certis intervallis temporum ipsius infirmitatis necessitas cogit, cur non et apostolicis preceptis observandis aliquas partes temporum deputamus? Citius enim exauditur una obedientis oratio, quam decem millia contemptoris . . . . . Qui autem se dicunt vacare lectioni, nonne illic inveniunt quod precipit Apostolus? Quæ est ista ergo perversitas, lectioni nolle obtemperare. dum vult ei vacare; et ut quod bonum est diutius legatur, ideo facere nolle quod legitur? Quis autem nesciat tanto citius quemque proficere, cum bona legit, quanto citius facit quod legit ?" Edit. Bened. tom. vi. 488.

- l. 10.-And in the rewle of Seynt Benet. Reg. S. Benedicti, cap. xlviii. apud Luc. Holstenii, Cod. Regularum, tom. i. p. 129. "Otiositas inimica est anime : et ideo certis temporibus occupari CAMD. SOC. 14.
debent fratres in labore manuun, certis iterum horis in lectione divina. Ideoque hac dispositione credimus utraque tempora ordinari; id est, a Pascha usque ad Kalendas Octobris, mane exeuntes a prima usque ad horam pene quartam laborent quod necessarium fuerit. Ab hora autem quarta usque ad horam quasi sextam lectioni vacent . . . . . . . . Si autem necessitas loci, aut panpertas exegerit, ut ad fruges colligendas per se occupentur, non contristentur; quia tunc vere Monachi sunt, si labore manuum suarum vivunt, sicut et Patres nostri, et A postoli."
P. 107, l. 25.-Gloriouse is the frut of good labors. "Bonorum enim laborum gloriosus est fructus." Wisd. iii. The reference in the margin "capo. iiio.," is a mistake of the press, for "Sap. ïjo." $^{\circ}$
P. 108, l. 23.-Our kynd: our nature.
-1.25. Of the sawis of Seynt Bernard. The Editor has not found the original of this reference.
- l. 31.-Stalworth. Stout, able-bodied. Anglo-Saxon reælpynðe or rexlpcorr, which Lye explains, Captu dignus, ejus astimationis ut operce pretium sit surripere.
P. 109, l. 1.-Vggid. There is perhaps some mistake here.
——l. 9.-Men kyd. Perhaps for menglid, mingled, united. See note on p. 87, line 13. Wicliffe's New Testament, reads, "if ony man obeieth not to oure word bi epistle, marke 3 he hym, and comyne 3he not with hym, that he be schamed."
-l.18.-As the Glose seith. "Nec rursum copia vel inopia transeuntium rerum in oblivionem decidat æternorum." Gloss. ordin. in Prov. xxx. 8.
—— 1. 24.-And thus Austeyn seith. Aug. De Sermone Domini in Monte, Lib. i. n. 67. (Edit. Bened. Opp. tom. iii. part ii. 193.) "Ita omni petenti te dabis, quamvis non semper id quod petit dabis; et aliquando melius aliquid dabis. cum petentem injusta correxeris." -- l.27.-As the Glose seith. See the Glossa ordinaria on Luke xii. "Non tantum cibos vestros communicate pauperibus, sed etiam vendite vestras possessiones, ut ommibus vestris semel pro Domino spretis postea labore manum vestrarum operemini, unde vivatis vel eleemosynam faciatis."
P. 109, l. 29.-Also Austeyn seith. This passage the Editor has not found.
- l. 31.-Also Jerom seith. This and the next citation from Jerom the Editor has searched for in vain.
P. 110, l. 3.-Also Prosper seith. This passage probably occurs in the work De Vita Contemplativa, falsely attributed to Prosper, which has been already quoted by our author, p. 104: but the Editor has not succeeded in verifying the reference.
——l.5.-3cld. Gold.
- l. 7.-Austeyn seith. This is another quotation, the original of which has not been found.
- l. 10.-Schenship. Blame, fault, reproach; from the AngloSaxon, jcensan. The verb shend, participle shent, has been used by Shakespeare, Spenser and others. See Nares' Glossary.
1.32.-Also in the story of Seynt Clement. 'This is a reference to the Golden Legend, or Historia Lombardica of Jacobus a Voragine. In the Legend of St. Clement, the circumstance alluded to by our author is thus recorded: "Quadam autem vice Petrus cum discipulis suis Autaradum, et inde ad insulam per sex miliaria distantem, in qua Macidiana mater Clementis morabatur, venit: ubi quondam columnæ vitreæ miræ magnitudinis erant. Quas cum Petrus cum ceteris miraretur, videns ipsam mendicantem, cur non potius suis manibus operaretur increpavit." Legend. Lombard. fol. Argentinæ, 1490. (Leg. clxv. B.)
P.111, l. 17.-Thi louis. Thy loaves, "prohibe panes illi dare." Ecclus. xii. 6.
—_l.20.-And thus is also bedun. Decret. Caus. xiv. !, 5. c. 1, " Nolite velle eleemosynas facere de foenore et usuris."
—— ibid.—Oker. "fœnus." Perhaps from the Anglo-Saxon, eacan, to eke, to encrease, to add.
P. 111, l. 22.-Fur the decre seith. Decret. Caus. xiv. q. 5, c. 2. " Immolans ex iniquo oblatio est maculata," &c. The whole of this chapter is no more than an extract from Ecclus. xxxiv.
_l. 24.-The gestis. A mistake for geftis. The original is " Dona iniquorum non probat altissimus."
- l. 28.-To the hirid hyne. i. e. to the hired hind. Mercenario.
P.112, l. 2.-Gregor. This marginal reference appears to have been added in allusion to the statement made in the text, that that only can be considered alms which is given of lawfully acquired property. The same sentiment is quoted from St. Gregory (Lib. vii. epist. 110, ad Siagrum) in the Decretum Caus. xiv.q.5, c. 7. "Eleemosyna Redemptoris nostri oculis illa placet, quæ non ex illicitis rebus et iniquitate congeritur, sed quæ de rebus concessis, et bene acquisitis impenditur."
_l. 8.-Softith. Softeneth, appeaseth.
- l. 11.-Tholith. Suffer ye, permit ye.
—l. 16.-The slowman. "Piger." Prov. xx. 4.
Here. "Arare." This word, under the spelling ear, is frequently used by Shakespeare, and also in the authorised version of the Bible. (1 Sam. viii. 12. Is. xxx. 24. Deut. xxi. 4. Gen. xlv. 6. Exod. xxxi. 21.) See Nares's Glossary. It is the same as the Anglo-Saxon epran, to plough ; and is evidently derived from the Latin, arare.
——l. 22.-Lizeth. Lieth.
-l. 24.-Reuar. Plunderer, from reeve.
- l. 27.-A none. Anon. "Statim ei mercedem restitue." Tob. iv. 15.
P. 113, l. 4.-Silun. Sell.
- l. 3. - Theis meny. These attendants, train, company. Meiny, or menie, from the old French mesnie. See Nares's Glossary, in roc.

> _ l. 10.-I redc. I counsel, I advise.

[^4]:    * See p.1. The extracts here made are given in modern English, for the convenience of the reader, and (for the most part) in what may be called a translation. In the foregoing extract a conjectural emendation, suggested in the note ( p .115 ), has been adopted.

[^5]:    * Orthuinii Gratii Fasciculus (ed. Brown), tom. i. p. 273. See also Rationes et Motiva, art. 8. "Si papa est prescitus et malus, et per consequens membrum diaboli, non habet potestatem super fideles ab alio sibi datam, nisi forte a Casarc." Ibid. p. $\mathbf{2} \mathbf{8} \mathbf{2}$.

[^6]:    * Orth. Gratii Fasciculus. Ilid. p. 283. Comp. also Art. 30. Ibid. p. 289.

[^7]:    * See the second and eighth conclusion objected against William Swinderby. Fox, ubi supra, p. 533, 534. So in the "Rationes et Motiva," already so often quoted, Wickliffe is made to say in the 15th article, "Nullus est Dominus civilis, nullus est prælatus, nullus est episcopus, dum est in peccato mortali." (Brown, Fasciculus, tom. i. p. 284). And again in the 17 th article, " Populares possunt ad suum arbitrium Dominos delinquentes corrigere." (Ibid. p. 285.)

[^8]:    * See the articles, under the head " Contra Orationes," attributed to Wickliffe in the Council of Constance. Brown, tom. i. p. 269. Also those under the head "Contra Missas et horas." Ilid. p. 276.

[^9]:    * The eighth of the Articles attributed to Wickliffe, and impugned by Willian de Wodford, is "Quod causæ divortii ratione consanguinitatis vel affinitatis, sint infundabiliter humanitus ordinatæ." See Orthuini Gratii Fascicul. ed. Brown, t. i. p. 190, and p. 213.

[^10]:    * The "Liber sextus Decretalium" was added by Boniface VIII. in 1298. The five books of Clementine Constitutions were compiled under Clement V.but published by his successor John XXII. in 1317. And the twenty constitutions of this latter Pontiff, now commonly known by the name of Extravagantes, were published about the year 1326.
